

U. N. COUNCIL APPROVES IRAN SETTLEMENT

'Win The Peace' Conference To Meet

The Men Behind the Scene at U. N. Conferences

ALTHOUGH THE CONFERENCES of the United Nations Security Council at Hunter College, Bronx, New York, have been widely reported, little notice has been accorded the experts who work behind the scene to keep the well known delegates completely informed. Their precise and important knowledge makes it possible for men like Byrnes, Gromyko, Cagogan and Ala to have at their fingertips vital data at the moment they need it. Pictured

'RED' CHARGES FAIL TO STOP CAPITAL CONFAB

Reports Say Conference To Push For Sympathy
For Soviet Union

BY LYLE C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 4—A "win the peace" conference sponsored by 20 members of congress convenes here tomorrow under published charges which do not brush off easily that it is a Communist front outfit.

The conference meets for three days in the auditorium of the commerce department. Most but not all of the congressmen presumably are unaware of the political background of some of their conference associates.

Among the congressional and non-congressional sponsors are some notable followers of the Communist party line although many have no connection at all with the Communist party.

The original conference proposal, however, came from sources which suggest that it is designed for two major purposes:

1. To create in the United States a more sympathetic attitude toward Soviet Russian foreign policy.
2. To create pressure for a change in United States foreign policy to a more favorable to Russia.

Denies Communist Talk

Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, D., Ill., announced conference plans last month. Sabath is the 80-year-old dean of the house and chairman of its rules committee. He says the charges that the conference is a Communist front is bunk.

However, Sabath announced the conference plan at the suggestion of four men who are aggressively active in left wing politics. They are:

Jo Davidson, chairman of the independent citizens committee for the arts, sciences and professions. Davidson's committee was created by the American communists for their own political purposes according to a report made last year to the party's New York state convention. Former Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes last month became executive chairman of the committee.

Julius Emspak, chairman of the United Electrical and Machine Workers (CIO) and a member of the defunct Communist-controlled American peace mobilization.

Bartley Crum, vice president of the National Lawyers Guild.

Singer Paul Robeson, also a member of the late American peace mobilization.

Quit in 1941

The American Peace Mobilization was created by Communists and their sympathizers. It attracted some non-Communist followers in 1940. Its purpose was to oppose American lend-lease or other assistance to Great Britain, then at war with Hitler's Germany. At that time Germany and the Soviet Union were at peace. Germany attacked Russia on the night of June 22, 1941. The American Peace (Continued on Page Two)

NEARLY 700,000 WORKERS IDLE

Coal Strike Causes More Workers To Leave Job; Trainmen Want More

By United Press

Nearly 700,000 U. S. workers were idle today because of strikes and shutdowns, and President Truman warned that a strike such as the soft coal stoppage could deliver a knockout blow to reconversion. Mr. Truman said that strikes and inflation were the two main threats to prosperity. If they are not bridled, he said, the coming "boom-or-bust" era could easily end in "economic chaos."

The President's warning came as Ford motor company announced that nearly half of its 90,000 production workers would be laid off for a week starting today because of a steel shortage.

Maximum steel production was prevented by the strike of John L. Lewis' 400,000 United Mine Workers. U. S. Steel Corp's Pittsburgh plants sharply curtailed output. Production at the Carnegie-Illinois, Gary, Ind., plant, largest steel mill in the world was to be reduced today or tomorrow.

PROBE IS URGED AS POLICE HUNT 'SNOOD SLAYER'

WASHINGTON, April 4—Ex-marine Earl McFarland, 25-year-old condemned "snoody slayer", remained at large today as officials pressed an investigation into the latest of a series of sensational escapes from the sieve-like Washington jail.

The jailbreak led irate congressional leaders and the justice department to launch an immediate investigation into the capital's prison practices.

As the entire east coast joined in the dogged search for McFarland, his get-away companion, Joseph B. Medley, also a condemned murderer, lounged about defiantly in his death row cell from which the pair staged their escape yesterday.

Medley, 44, suave and sophisticated nemesis of red-haired women, was dragged shivering and cold from an 18-foot length of drainage pipe on the bank of the Anacostia river seven hours after the break. Bloodhounds led police to his hideaway.

Collection Of Garbage Due Friday

Garbage collection will start in Circleville Friday.

There is no set schedule for the first collection, sponsors of the project announced, but efforts will be made to remove garbage of all subscribers to the program Friday, Saturday or Monday.

A definite schedule will be worked out and announced after one or two trial collections are made, it was announced. During the summer months it is planned to collect garbage twice a week.

There will be no trash taken during the first collection. Regular once-a-month collections of trash are planned when the program gets under way.

The second collection of garbage is scheduled for the last part of next week.

Subscribers to the collection program are reminded by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the project, to be sure that no tin cans, lids and glass are placed in the garbage.

WEST POINTER SUGGESTS ARMY START ALL OVER

WASHINGTON, April 4—The Army's gripe board today had a bigger job cut out for it than it had bargained for: a West Point general asked it to start from scratch and rebuild the armed forces.

"The Army is out of touch with the American people," asserted Brig. Gen. H. C. Holdridge, ret., a lifetime officer. "It is feudal, totalitarian, reactionary and despotic."

After his testimony before the board, Holdridge told reporters he urged a clean break with the past and creation of a small, powerful army of 100,000 to 200,000 well-paid and highly-trained specialists.

"There is no room for the caste system in an army of atomic scientists," said Holdridge.

FOUR COUNTY YOUTHS PASS SERVICE EXAMS

Passage of physical examination by four youths sent to Fort Hayes, March 28, by the Pickaway county Selective Service board was announced Thursday.

PRESIDENT GETS MERGER PLAN

Authors Of Bill Explain To Truman Program For Single Command

WASHINGTON, April 4—A detailed plan to merge the armed forces goes to President Truman today.

The program—calling for co-equal status for air, land and sea forces—was embodied in a bill written by a senate military affairs subcommittee after a series of public hearings beginning last October.

Details of the bill, not yet made public, will be explained to Mr. Truman by two of its authors, Sens. Elbert D. Thomas, D., Utah, and Warren Austin, R., Vt.

Neither would predict that the program would end the Army-Navy feud over merger. The Army wants it; the Navy doesn't.

The subcommittee bill reportedly calls for a single civilian "secretary of common defense," who would take over the present duties of the secretaries of war and navy. Under the new "super-secretary" would be three civilian assistant secretaries—one each for air, sea and land forces.

There also would be an over-all commander of the armed forces, subordinate to the civilian secretary. The armed forces chief would have an assistant for each of the three major arms of the service.

Editors See Votes Split In Election

COLUMBUS, April 4—A poll of editors and political experts on Ohio newspapers today revealed a definite trend toward a split party ticket and election of a republican senator in this year's elections.

John W. Bricker, former governor and possible GOP contender for the presidential or vice-presidential nomination in 1948, is certain to be elected U. S. senator from Ohio, the poll showed.

According to the results of the poll, Gov. Frank J. Lausche, democrat, has a firm lead in his race for re-election in November and Paul Herbert, republican, Columbus attorney, will probably succeed George D. Nye, incumbent lieutenant governor.

The political experts were certain in their belief that attempts to unseat Congressman-at-large George H. Bender of Cleveland are doomed to failure. Bender is now serving his fourth consecutive term.

The editors poll in the primary election for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator favored: (Continued on Page Two)

NAZIS FEARED ALLIED ATTACK

Keitel Says Drive From West
Might Have Stopped War
Before It Started

NUERNBERG, April 4—Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, rambling uncertainly through an account of Nazi war plans, told the war crimes court today that an allied attack on the western front during the Polish campaign would have met no effective German resistance.

The former chief of the German high command got tangled up in his own story-telling, and at one point made a liar of himself. He said the Nazis had only five divisions on the western front in the first month of the war. After a recess he boosted the figure to 20 divisions, merely explaining that he was "mixed up."

But he did not change his original assertion that if the French had attacked in the west while the Germans were overrunning Poland, "they would have met no German resistance."

The Allies might have ended the war before it was well begun with an invasion of Germany from the west during the Polish campaign, Keitel testified.

"We soldiers always expected intervention by the western powers during the Polish campaign, and we were surprised that only slight skirmishes took place along the west wall, which was protected (Continued on Page Two)

Youth Has Brief Career As Burglar

Career in crime of a "baby" burglar was cut short at 10 p. m. Wednesday when Circleville police arrested a 12-year-old boy less than three hours after the lad had stolen $33 and a typewriter in a burglary of the Paul A. Johnson stationery store and printing shop, 124 South Court street.

The boy admitted Thursday to Judge Sterling Lamb in Pickaway county juvenile court that in recent weeks he had shoplifted merchandise from the Gallaher drug store, G. C. Murphy company store, and other downtown establishments.

Entrance was gained to the Johnson store about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday and the youngster told Judge Lamb that he tried three rear windows before he was able to force one of them. (Continued on Page Two)

COSTS OF NEW LIGHTS CLEARED

Total Annual Cost Will Be
$1,788 If City Gets Boulevard Lamps

Total annual cost to the city for the proposed 37-unit boulevard lighting system on Court and Main streets, in the event the city council authorizes the 10-year contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., will be $1,788.

There will be no installation costs as was stated in The Herald on Wednesday.

Under provisions of the contract the electric company will install the 37 boulevard lights and operate them all night, 365 days per year, and maintain the lighting system, at a gross cost to the city of $60 per light per year, or a total annual charge of $2,220.

Installation of the boulevard lights will eliminate 11 lights now operated at a cost to the city of $432 a year. The saving of this $432 will reduce the annual cost of operating the 37 boulevard lights to the net sum of $1,788.

The explanation of the costs of the proposed new boulevard lighting system was given Thursday by members of council and officials of the electric company.

Fred McKay, Athens agent for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., calculated that the cost to the city of operating all of the 37 boulevard lights will be 52 1/2 cents per hour.

Councilman George L. Crites pointed out that the new boulevard lighting could be paid for with collections of less than two months from parking meters in the same area, which collections amounted to $1,132 for the month of March alone. Also that this (Continued on Page Two)

MSGR. COBURN NEW DIRECTOR OF HOLY NAME

COLUMBUS, April 4—Monsignor Robert F. Coburn, Bexley pastor, was appointed diocesan director of the Holy Name society today by Bishop Michael J. Ready, head of the Catholic diocese of Columbus.

The organization was founded in 1274 to suppress blasphemy, perjury, profanity, unlawful swearing and improper language.

Monsignor Coburn will be assisted by five deanery directors. The Rev. Frank J. Kreuzkamp, pastor of St. Peter's church in Chillicothe, heads the southern section of Ohio which includes Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Fayette, Jackson and Scioto counties.

DEPUTY WOLFORD QUILTS; CARL RADCLIFF IS NAMED

Resignation of Deputy Sheriff Lester Wolford was announced Thursday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who said that Wolford will be succeeded by Carl Radcliff, now a patrolman in the Circleville police department. Radcliff will begin his duties as deputy sheriff April 7.

RUSSIANS LEAVING IRAN

Reports State Withdrawal Is Being Made According To Red Promises

NEW YORK, April 4—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes proposed today that the United Nations security council postpone further consideration of the Soviet-Iranian case until May 6 because the Soviet Union has promised to remove its troops from Iran unconditionally by that date.

Byrnes formally presented a motion for ending the current crisis within UN and for bringing the Soviet Union back to the council table at the opening of today's meeting. Soviet Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko was absent—the fifth meeting he has stayed away from since he walked out of the chamber a week ago Wednesday.

Byrnes' resolution signaled the end of the worst crisis in UN's short history. The result was hailed as a major victory for the organization which has weathered the storm despite the walkout of one of its permanent members.

Salient points of the Byrnes resolution were:

1. Recognition of the Soviet promise to withdraw its troops within five or six weeks.
2. Recognition of the Russian assurance that troop evacuation is "not connected" with other issues like oil and Azerbaijan autonomy.
3. Recognition that Russian withdrawal cannot be completed before May 6.
4. Provision to defer further council proceedings until May 6 when both parties must report to the council that the withdrawal has been completed.
5. Provision that the council can put the Iranian case at the top of its agenda in the meantime if developments warrant.

Russia has promised to remove her troops from Iran unconditionally by May 6.

Iran, the complaining nation against Russia, is satisfied with the Soviet promise.

Gromyko, still following his instructions to abstain from discussion of the Iranian case until April 10, was not present at today's council meeting. But he probably will be back in his chair tomorrow once the Iranina case is disposed of.

(A Tehran dispatch from United Press correspondent Sam Souki quoted Gen. M. H. Firouz, under-secretary for politics, as saying evacuation of Red army troops is proceeding "according to plan.")

Official dispatches to the U. S. government were said to contain every evidence that the Russians were moving out of the country.

Security council members are satisfied with the agreement. They will accept at face value the Soviet Union's assurances that evacuation of Red Army troops from Iran is not contingent upon (Continued on Page Two)

POPE SUGGESTS RATIONING TO HELP STARVING

VATICAN CITY, April 4—Pope Pius appealed today to the nations rich in resources to institute food rationing to help ease the threat of world famine.

The Pope broadcast throughout the world over the Vatican City radio his views on the global food crisis.

"A small, even insignificant, rationing in the richest countries would do so much to help the situation," the pontiff said.

He singled out Argentina and Brazil especially as among the countries which could help in the crisis. But he cast his appeal on a broad enough plane of material wealth to include the United States.

Pope Pius said that one fourth of the people throughout the world are menaced by the threat of starvation.

Search Continues For Wave Victims; Miss McGinnis Saw Friends Swept Away

HONOLULU, April 4—The search continued today for 94 persons still missing following Monday's disastrous tidal waves, but Army and Navy officials held out little hope that any of them would be found alive.

Total dead and missing was 192 with 98 known dead, 450 injured and an estimated 10,000 left homeless. There were 87 known dead in the Hawaiian islands, 10 drowned in the Aleutians and one in California.

All 94 missing are from the Hawaiian area. They were presumed to be pinned beneath the wreckage of beach homes or washed out to sea.

Surface craft and flying boats scoured the seas off the Hawaiian coast in search of survivors but officials were doubtful that any of the missing could have remained afloat this long.

Military and civic agencies cared for refugees left homeless

by the seismic waves that swept across the broad Pacific from the U. S. mainland to Japan and from the Aleutians to the coast of Chile. The waves were touched off by earthquakes in the Aleutian deep off the coast of Alaska.

Small tidal waves, believed to have been the result of the Pacific disturbances, washed against the east and north coasts of New Zealand and Australia yesterday, the Australian radio reported. No damage resulted but in some places waves eight feet high swept up rivers from the coast.

Federal Housing Director J. Stowell Wright and Gov. Ingram Stainback both set in motion programs for quick release of building materials and surplus military supplies to speed rehabilitation in Hawaii where property damage was unofficially estimated at between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

The long, exposed beaches of the island of Hawaii were hardest hit, and survivors told how the huge, green wall of water swirled in, smashed cottages into kindling wood and carried helpless women and children with it when it receded out beyond the treacherous, razor-sharp coral reefs.

Miss Marsue McGinnis, formerly of Kingston and Whisler, Ohio, a 21-year-old school teacher who was rescued off Hawaii after floating nine hours on a log, said her little seaside cottage "seemed to fall apart" when the wave struck.

She said she saw her two friends, Fay Johnson, Vinton, Va., and Helen Kingseed, Sidney, O., "caught in the swirling water and go down almost immediately."

"Neither of them could swim," she said, "and I know they must be lost."

While floating in the water, Miss McGinnis said she saw several children disappear beneath the angry sea nearby. She was helpless to save them, she said.

Editors See Votes Split In Election

COLUMBUS, April 4—A poll of editors and political experts on Ohio newspapers today revealed a definite trend toward a split party ticket and election of a republican senator in this year's elections.

John W. Bricker, former governor and possible GOP contender for the presidential or vice-presidential nomination in 1948, is certain to be elected U. S. senator from Ohio, the poll showed.

According to the results of the poll, Gov. Frank J. Lausche, democrat, has a firm lead in his race for re-election in November and Paul Herbert, republican, Columbus attorney, will probably succeed George D. Nye, incumbent lieutenant governor.

The political experts were certain in their belief that attempts to unseat Congressman-at-large George H. Bender of Cleveland are doomed to failure. Bender is now serving his fourth consecutive term.

The editors poll in the primary election for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator favored: (Continued on Page Two)

NAZIS FEARED ALLIED ATTACK

Keitel Says Drive From West Might Have Stopped War Before It Started

NUERNBERG, April 4—Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, rambling uncertainly through an account of Nazi war plans, told the war crimes court today that an allied attack on the western front during the Polish campaign would have met no effective German resistance.

The former chief of the German high command got tangled up in his own story-telling, and at one point made a liar of himself. He said the Nazis had only five divisions on the western front in the first month of the war. After a recess he boosted the figure to 20 divisions, merely explaining that he was "mixed up."

But he did not change his original assertion that if the French had attacked in the west while the Germans were overrunning Poland, "they would have met no German resistance."

The Allies might have ended the war before it was well begun with an invasion of Germany from the west during the Polish campaign, Keitel testified.

"We soldiers always expected intervention by the western powers during the Polish campaign, and we were surprised that only slight skirmishes took place along the west wall, which was protected (Continued on Page Two)

Search Continues For Wave Victims; Miss McGinnis Saw Friends Swept Away

HONOLULU, April 4—The search continued today for 94 persons still missing following Monday's disastrous tidal waves, but Army and Navy officials held out little hope that any of them would be found alive.

Total dead and missing was 192 with 98 known dead, 450 injured and an estimated 10,000 left homeless. There were 87 known dead in the Hawaiian Islands, 10 drowned in the Aleutians and one in California.

All 94 missing are from the Hawaiian area. They were presumed to be pinned beneath the wreckage of beach homes or washed out to sea.

Surface craft and flying boats scoured the seas off the Hawaiian coast in search of survivors but officials were doubtful that any of the missing could have remained afloat this long.

Military and civic agencies cared for refugees left homeless

by the seismic waves that swept across the broad Pacific from the U. S. mainland to Japan and from the Aleutians to the coast of Chile. The waves were touched off by earthquakes in the Aleutian deep off the coast of Alaska.

Small tidal waves, believed to have been the result of the Pacific disturbances, washed against the east and north coasts of New Zealand and Australia yesterday, the Australian radio reported. No damage resulted but in some places waves eight feet high swept up rivers from the coast.

Federal Housing Director J. Stowell Wright and Gov. Ingram Stainback both set in motion programs for quick release of building materials and surplus military supplies to speed rehabilitation in Hawaii where property damage was unofficially estimated at between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

The long, exposed beaches of the island of Hawaii were hardest hit, and survivors told how the huge, green wall of water swirled in, smashed cottages into kindling wood and carried helpless women and children with it when it receded out beyond the treacherous, razor-sharp coral reefs.

Miss Marsue McGinnis, formerly of Kingston and Whisler, Ohio, a 21-year-old school teacher who was rescued off Hawaii after floating nine hours on a log, said her little seaside cottage "seemed to fall apart" when the wave struck.

She said she saw her two friends, Fay Johnson, Vinton, Va., and Helen Kingseed, Sidney, O., "caught in the swirling water and go down almost immediately."

"Neither of them could swim," she said, "and I know they must be lost."

While floating in the water, Miss McGinnis said she saw several children disappear beneath the angry sea nearby. She was helpless to save them, she said.

MSGR. COBURN NEW DIRECTOR OF HOLY NAME

COLUMBUS, April 4—Monsignor Robert F. Coburn, Bexley pastor, was appointed diocesan director of the Holy Name society today by Bishop Michael J. Ready, head of the Catholic diocese of Columbus.

The organization was founded in 1274 to suppress blasphemy, perjury, profanity, unlawful swearing and improper language.

Monsignor Coburn will be assisted by five deanery directors. The Rev. Frank J. Kreuskamp, pastor of St. Peter's church in Chillicothe, heads the southern section of Ohio which includes Pickaway, Pike, Ross, Fayette, Jackson and Scioto counties.

DEPUTY WOLFORD QUILTS; CARL RADCLIFF IS NAMED

Resignation of Deputy Sheriff Lester Wolford was announced Thursday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who said that Wolford will be succeeded by Carl Radcliff, now a patrolman in the Circleville police department. Radcliff will begin his duties as deputy sheriff April 7.

POPE SUGGESTS RATIONING TO HELP STARVING

VATICAN CITY, April 4—Pope Pius appealed today to the nations rich in resources to institute food rationing to help ease the threat of world famine.

The Pope broadcast throughout the world over the Vatican City radio his views on the global food crisis.

"A small, even insignificant, rationing in the richest countries would do so much to help the situation," the pontiff said.

He singled out Argentina and Brazil especially as among the countries which could help in the crisis. But he cast his appeal on a broad enough plane of material wealth to include the United States.

Pope Pius said that one fourth of the people throughout the world are menaced by the threat of starvation.

agreements for oil concessions and Azerbaijan autonomy.

The end of the Iranian crisis probably will come through a simple resolution by the council or a declaration by the chairman expressing the sentiments of the council members.

In either case the council will take note of: (1) the Soviet promise to get out of Iran by May 6; (2) the Soviet assurance that its evacuation is unconditional; (3) Iran's assertion that no agreement with Russia has been reached; (4) Iran's promise not to press its charges if the Russians get out.

The council also will ask for a report from both parties by May 6 and retain the right to step back into the case at any time if things go wrong.

Council delegates, groggy from the Iranian crisis which built up to a grand climax yesterday, were jubilant over the prospects of a settlement.

They did not discount the grave days through which the council has just passed. But they appeared unanimous in believing that the real winner of the struggle was the fledgling council itself.

In their view, the council has demonstrated dramatically, especially to the smaller nations, that one big power cannot prevent council consideration of a complaint. The council stood up to its severest test—a walkout by one of its permanent members. And in the end the Soviet union came through with a reply to a council request which solved the crisis.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes who led the opposition to Russia's attempt to keep the Iranian case off the agenda, at least until April 10, believes three major points have been won in the last 10 days:

1. Any nation can present to the council any situation it thinks disturbs the peace.

2. No one nation can block purely procedural matters in council—even if it walks out.

3. No one nation can dictate the council—even if it walks out, will of the majority.

FERGUSON STILL NOT AVAILABLE FOR COMMENT

COLUMBUS, April 4—Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today he had not received a letter from Paul M. Herbert, candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, that asked for a legislative investigation of a surplus commodities "racket" by the state auditor.

Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's office said he was not expected in the office today and assistants did not know when he would be available for comment.

Herbert had charged yesterday that the state auditor's office operated a "racket" in the purchase and sale of federal surplus. He said it was a "truckless trucking racket" and asked the governor to call for an investigation at the next session of the legislature.

The boy hired a taxicab to go home and enroute asked the driver where he could sell the typewriter. The youngster was taken into custody in his home by Police Chief W. F. McCrady and Patrolmen Carl Radcliff and Turney Ross. All of the loot was recovered with the exception of 20 cents the lad paid for taxicab fare.

SINO-RED HEAD HURLS CHARGES AT GEN. CHIANG

CHUNGKING, April 4—Lt. Gen. Chou En-Lai, Chinese Communist leader, charged today that the Nationalist government is threatening civil war in Manchuria by attempting to drive Communist forces from major towns before the arrival of the Nationalist-Communist-American field teams.

Chou charged that the Chiang Kai-Shek government was threatening the foundations of the political truce. Chou called for an end of what he called "carelessly given" allied financial assistance to the central government.

He said that Nationalist forces plan to attempt to occupy within the next 10 days a number of Manchurian towns, including Sze-Pi-Chai, Anshan, Yingkou, Faku, and Fushun before the field teams can get on the ground.

REFUGEE DEATH IS PROTESTED BY 35,000 JEWS

FRANKFURT, April 4—An estimated 35,000 Jews in 17 displaced persons camps in the American zone of Germany demonstrated today in mass protests against the slaying of a Jewish refugee by German police at an American camp at Stuttgart last week.

Military police surrounded the camps, acting on tips that riots might break out.

The demonstrations were ordered by the Jewish central committee at a meeting here yesterday.

Armed military police patrolled the streets of Munich and elsewhere in light tanks and halftracks to avert the danger of outbreaks.

NEARLY 700,000 WORKERS IDLE

president of the Santa Fe railway, said the award would force the company to appeal for higher freight rates.

2. Industry spokesmen charged that Lewis was prolonging the soft coal strike to further his "rule or ruin" policy and had no immediate intention of signing a wage agreement.

3. Approximately 2,000,000 residents of Akron, O., and Detroit walked or used private transportation for the fourth day, as attempts to settle strikes by more than 5,000 transit workers in the two cities proved fruitless.

4. Disagreement over the single issue of allowance pay for piece-work employees prevented settlement of the 74-day strike by 30,000 workers at 10 plants of International Harvester Company.

In the railroad case, the 16-cent arbitration awards were made by two boards, one hearing the dispute involving non-operating brotherhoods, and one involving operating brotherhoods.

Bert M. Jewell, president of the AFL railway employees department, said the award was "wholly unsatisfactory" to the non-operating union, which had sought 30 cents and hour increases. He said the unions would seek further wage increases.

Santa Fe president Gruley said the road would be forced to appeal to the interstate commerce commission for a freight rate increase because the awards were higher than had been anticipated. A railroad spokesman said the total increase, retroactive to last Jan. 1, would cost the railroads $584,000,000 (m) a year.

Meanwhile, representatives of the soft coal operators and the UMW failed to make progress toward agreement in the four-day coal strike. The operators accused the miners of bad faith in bargaining after President Truman appealed for a speedy settlement.

Paul W. Fuller, government conciliator who entered the negotiations when the strike began last Monday, was reported to have spent the past three days in the role of a listener. It was understood he was prepared to offer a compromise settlement when he felt the opportune moment had arrived.

HURT DURING FRACAS

Delmo Walisa, 46, of 617 Barnes avenue, suffered lacerations on his nose, forehead and chin, and two teeth were knocked out, at 1:30 a. m. Thursday, when he was struck with a beer bottle during a fracas at the rear of the White Swan, a West Main street tavern, it was reported Thursday. Walisa was given emergency treatment at Berger hospital and was then removed to his home. No arrests were made.

Editors See Votes Split In Election

Sen. James W. Huffman, incumbent, 52.2 percent; Marvin Harrison, 21.7 percent; Stephen Young, 17.4 percent, and no opinion 8.7 percent.

Bricker is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Governor Lausche and Thomas J. Herbert, Cleveland GOP candidate, were picked unanimously to win the gubernatorial nominations of their parties. Both have one opponent.

In the Republican primary election for lieutenant governor Paul Herbert was favored 91.3 percent to win the party nomination while Fred Milligan, also of Columbus, received 8.7 percent of the poll vote. Democratic incumbent George D. Nye is unopposed.

State treasurer Don H. Ebright and state attorney general Hugh S. Jenkins were both unanimous choices of the editors to be re-elected to their offices. Both men are Republicans. Ebright is unopposed in the primary while Jenkins has one opponent, Harry T. Marshall of Cleveland.

The Democratic primaries in these two contests also reflected the large fields of contenders. In the contest for nomination as state treasurer Harry Armstrong, LaRue, polled the largest vote with 39.1 percent, while no opinion was expressed by 43.5 percent of the editors.

In the Democratic primary contest for attorney general the largest vote was polled by Timothy Hogan of Cincinnati, 17.4 percent. No opinion was expressed by 56.5 percent of the participants.

Mobilization, which was picketing the White House with anti-Roosevelt signs at that moment, promptly went out of business. Its Communist members almost instantly began yelling for help for the British and for war against Germany.

A "strictly confidential" memorandum by former attorney general Francis Biddle, published on page 426 of appendix, part 9 of the report of the house un-American activities committee says, in part:

League Defined
"The American League against war and Fascism is the first of three organizations established in the United States in an effort to create public sentiment on behalf of a foreign policy adapted to the interests of the Soviet Union."

"Its successor, the American League for Peace and Democracy, was established in 1937, and it, in turn, gave way in 1940 to the American Peace Mobilization which, since the German invasion of Russia and establishment of a pro-war policy by Communists in the United States, has been known as American People's Mobilization."

FERGUSON STILL NOT AVAILABLE FOR COMMENT

COLUMBUS, April 4—Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today he had not received a letter from Paul M. Herbert, candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, that asked for a legislative investigation of a surplus commodities "racket" by the state auditor.

Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's office said he was not expected in the office today and assistants did not know when he would be available for comment.

Herbert had charged yesterday that the state auditor's office operated a "racket" in the purchase and sale of federal surplus. He said it was a "truckless trucking racket" and asked the governor to call for an investigation at the next session of the legislature.

Youth Has Brief Career As Burglar

In addition to the loot which included $1 21 bills, one $10 bill, 30 nickels, one dime and 27 pennies, plus the typewriter, the boy confessed that he "pled" type in the print shop and also destroyed some paper.

The boy hired a taxicab to go home and enroute asked the driver where he could sell the typewriter. The youngster was taken into custody in his home by Police Chief W. F. McCrady and Patrolmen Carl Radcliff and Turney Ross. All of the loot was recovered with the exception of 20 cents the lad paid for taxicab fare.

Judge Lamb sentenced the boy to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster and then suspended the penalty on condition of good behavior and ordered the lad released to the custody of his parents. He was ordered to report to the court each Saturday and to attend Sunday school regularly.

SINO-RED HEAD HURLS CHARGES AT GEN. CHIANG

CHUNGKING, April 4—Lt. Gen. Chou En-Lai, Chinese Communist leader, charged today that the Nationalist government is threatening civil war in Manchuria by attempting to drive Communist forces from major towns before the arrival of the Nationalist-Communist-American field teams.

Chou charged that the Chiang Kai-Shek government was threatening the foundations of the political truce. Chou called for an end of what he called "careless given" allied financial assistance to the central government.

He said that Nationalist forces plan to attempt to occupy within the next 10 days a number of Manchurian towns, including Sze-Pi-Chai, Anshan, Yingkow, Faku, and Fushun before the field teams can get on the ground.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes who led the opposition to Russia's attempt to keep the Iranian case off the agenda, at least until April 10, believes three major points have been won in the last 10 days:

1. Any nation can present to the council any situation it thinks disturbs the peace.

2. No one nation can block purely procedural matters in council—even if it walks out.

3. No one nation can dictate the council—even if it walks out, will of the majority.

REFUGEE DEATH IS PROTESTED BY 35,000 JEWS

FRANKFURT, April 4—An estimated 35,000 Jews in 17 displaced persons camps in the American zone of Germany demonstrated today in mass protests against the slaying of a Jewish refugee by German police at an American camp at Stuttgart last week.

Military police surrounded the camps, acting on tips that riots might break out.

The demonstrations were ordered by the Jewish central committee at a meeting here yesterday.

Armed military police patrolled the streets of Munich and elsewhere in light tanks and halftracks to avert the danger of outbreaks.

NEARLY 700,000 WORKERS IDLE

president of the Santa Fe railway, said the award would force the company to appeal for higher freight rates.

2. Industry spokesmen charged that Lewis was prolonging the soft coal strike to further his "rule or ruin" policy and had no immediate intention of signing a wage agreement.

3. Approximately 2,000,000 residents of Akron, O., and Detroit walked or used private transportation for the fourth day, as attempts to settle strikes by more than 5,000 transit workers in the two cities proved fruitless.

4. Disagreement over the single issue of allowance pay for piece-work employees prevented settlement of the 74-day strike by 30,000 workers at 10 plants of International Harvester Company.

In the railroad case, the 16-cent arbitration awards were made by two boards, one hearing the dispute involving non-operating brotherhoods, and one involving operating brotherhoods.

Bert M. Jewell, president of the AFL railway employees department, said the award was "wholly unsatisfactory" to the non-operating union, which had sought 30 cents and hour increases. He said the unions would seek further wage increases.

Santa Fe president Gruley said the road would be forced to appeal to the interstate commerce commission for a freight rate increase because the awards were higher than had been anticipated. A railroad spokesman said the total increases, retroactive to last Jan. 1, would cost the railroads $584,000,000 (m) a year.

Meanwhile, representatives of the soft coal operators and the UMW failed to make progress toward agreement in the four-day coal strike. The operators accused the miners of bad faith in bargaining after President Truman appealed for a speedy settlement.

Paul W. Fuller, government conciliator who entered the negotiations when the strike began last Monday, was reported to have spent the past three days in the role of a listener. It was understood he was prepared to offer a compromise settlement when he felt the opportune moment had arrived.

'RAILROADING' CHARGES MADE AGAINST LEWIS

LONDON, April 4—Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis, commander of the European western base section, was accused in military court today of trying indirectly to "railroad" nine guards accused of brutality at the Lichfield depot and "let the accused officers off."

The charge was made by defense counsel at the opening of the trial of Staff Sgt. James M. Jones of Muskogee, Okla., former guard at the U. S. 10th replacement depot at Lichfield, England.

Frank A. Johnson, chief of defense counsel, challenged the jurisdiction of the court. He said a "biased and prejudiced attitude of higher headquarters" deprived Jones of his rights.

He said he would prove that Lewis was the "real reviewing authority," instead of Col. Claude M. Thiele, commander of U. S. troops in the United Kingdom, who is the official appointing authority for the present court.

Service Director Clarence Helvering said that municipal workmen expected to complete Thursday afternoon the task of installing stronger bulbs in street lights throughout the city to replace the low-powered bulbs heretofore in use.

Cleveland, therefore, will likely be much better lighted Thursday night. Some of the larger bulbs were placed in use Wednesday night, the service director said.

Editors See Votes Split In Election

Sen. James W. Huffman, incumbent, 52.2 percent; Marvin Harrison, 21.7 percent; Stephen Young, 17.4 percent, and no opinion 8.7 percent.

Bricker is unopposed for the Republican nomination. Governor Lausche and Thomas J. Herbert, Cleveland GOP candidate, were picked unanimously to win the gubernatorial nominations of their parties. Both have one opponent.

In the Republican primary election for lieutenant governor Paul Herbert was favored 91.3 percent to win the party nomination while Fred Milligan, also of Columbus, received 8.7 percent of the poll vote. Democratic incumbent George D. Nye is unopposed.

State treasurer Don H. Ebricht and state attorney general Hugh S. Jenkins were both unanimous choices of the editors to be re-elected to their offices. Both men are Republicans. Ebricht is unopposed in the primary while Jenkins has one opponent, Harry T. Marshall of Cleveland.

The Democratic primaries in these two contests also reflected the large fields of contenders. In the contest for nomination as state treasurer Harry Armstrong, LaRue, polled the largest vote with 39.1 percent, while no opinion was expressed by 43.5 percent of the editors.

In the Democratic primary contest for attorney general the largest vote was polled by Timothy Hogan of Cincinnati, 17.4 percent. No opinion was expressed by 56.5 percent of the participants.

Mobilization, which was picketing the White House with anti-Roosevelt signs at that moment, promptly went out of business. Its Communist members almost instantly began yelling for help for the British and for war against Germany.

A "strictly confidential" memorandum by former attorney general Francis Biddle, published on page 426 of appendix, part 9 of the report of the house un-American activities committee says, in part:

FUND DRIVE FOR CAMP FOR GIRLS BEING STAGED

Advantages Of Girl Scout Program Outlined By Mrs. Denham

Sponsors of the Girl Scout organization in Pickaway county are now conducting a drive to raise funds for a camp in the county.

"For a Better Tomorrow" is the title of the following article written by Mrs. Enid Denham in which she explains the advantage of the program:

Girl Scout Camps, which are supported and maintained by the community, are a great asset in preparing girls for a better tomorrow. They supplement the formal education of the girls.

In almost four hundred Girl Scout residence camps thousands of girls living in a miniature democracy are learning the attitudes and skills that will help them face the tensions and problems posed by an unsettled world. More and more girls are given poise and confidence through the opportunity to share in programs and comradeship in an outdoor setting. Established camps are too crowded to take care of our Pickaway County girls.

Now Pickaway County is planning to build a camp lodge for day and overnight troop camping for its girls. This is a Girl Scout project approved by the Community Chest Committee from which the Girl Scout Organization derives its present funds for operating and running of Headquarters. It does not include funds for building the camp site. Therefore we are now in the midst of a Girl Scout Drive to raise funds for building the proposed lodge. We have the camp site donated by Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Miller at Gold Cliff.

We are appealing also to the parents. By understanding and appreciating the program and problems of camp, and by aiding in this camp project, parents can help materially in building better camps. This cooperation is necessary if Girl Scout camps are to keep their standards high and their costs low. They provide parents, in return, a safe place for their daughters. They teach and perpetuate ideals of democracy. They are worthy of your support.

ALL DIRECTORS OF CONTAINER ARE REELECTED

At the annual meeting of stockholders of Container Corporation of America all of the directors were re-elected.

Walter P. Paepcke, president, announced that the estimated earnings of the company for the first quarter were approximately $900,000, which amounts to about $1.20 per share.

Mr. Paepcke reported at this meeting that over 90% of the common stock of California Container Corporation had been deposited for exchange for shares of Container stock.

At the directors' meeting following the stockholders' meeting a dividend of 40¢ per share was declared, payable May 20 to stockholders of record on May 4.

FUND DRIVE FOR CAMP FOR GIRLS BEING STAGED

Advantages Of Girl Scout Program Outlined By Mrs. Denham

Sponsors of the Girl Scout organization in Pickaway county are now conducting a drive to raise funds for a camp in the county.

"For a Better Tomorrow" is the title of the following article written by Mrs. Enid Denham in which she explains the advantage of the program:

Girl Scout Camps, which are supported and maintained by the community, are a great asset in preparing girls for a better tomorrow. They supplement the formal education of the girls.

In almost four hundred Girl Scout residence camps thousands of girls living in a miniature democracy are learning the attitudes and skills that will help them face the tensions and problems posed by an unsettled world. More and more girls are given poise and confidence through the opportunity to share in programs and comradeship in an outdoor setting. Established camps are too crowded to take care of our Pickaway County girls.

Now Pickaway County is planning to build a camp lodge for day and overnight troop camping for its girls. This is a Girl Scout project approved by the Community Chest Committee from which the Girl Scout Organization derives its present funds for operating and running of Headquarters. It does not include funds for building the camp site. Therefore we are now in the midst of a Girl Scout Drive to raise funds for building the proposed lodge. We have the camp site donated by Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Miller at Gold Cliff.

We are appealing also to the parents. By understanding and appreciating the program and problems of camp, and by aiding in this camp project, parents can help materially in building better camps. This cooperation is necessary if Girl Scout camps are to keep their standards high and their costs low. They provide parents, in return, a safe place for their daughters. They teach and perpetuate ideals of democracy. They are worthy of your support.

ALL DIRECTORS OF CONTAINER ARE REELECTED

At the annual meeting of stockholders of Container Corporation of America all of the directors were re-elected.

Walter P. Paepcke, president, announced that the estimated earnings of the company for the first quarter were approximately $900,000, which amounts to about $1.20 per share.

Mr. Paepcke reported at this meeting that over 90% of the common stock of California Container Corporation had been deposited for exchange for shares of Container stock.

At the directors' meeting following the stockholders' meeting a dividend of 40¢ per share was declared, payable May 20 to stockholders of record on May 4.

ARMY SURGEON WILL HELP IN CANCER FIGHT

Ralph Amey Heads Society Drive For Funds In Pickaway County

Another link in the fight to save the lives of thousands who die of cancer was forged today with the appointment of one of the nation's leading army surgeons to a high post in the American Cancer Society, it was disclosed today by Ralph L. Amey, chairman of the Society's campaign in Pickaway county.

The new official, Mr. Amey said, is Col. A. W. Oughterson of the Army Institute of Pathology in Washington and former clinical professor of surgery at Yale. The colonel, who recently returned to this country from Japan where he investigated the effects of the atomic bomb, has been appointed medical and scientific director and executive vice-president of the national society.

Mr. Amey pointed out that Colonel Oughterson's appointment has an interesting connection between the campaign for funds which will be held here in April and the over-all goal of the Society in its search for a cancer cure. Recently science has turned to the atomic bomb for a possible solution to the cancer riddle. The American Cancer Society has requested use of the uranium pile developed for atomic bomb construction for production of long-lived, radioactive carbon and hydrogen which are valuable in cancer research. Much of the money raised during April will go toward developing this and many other angles of cancer research.

Colonel Oughterson had a colorful army career, entering the service as a lieutenant colonel in the medical corps in January 1942 when he was assigned to the Army Medical School in Washington but three months later he was made chief of the surgical service at Lovell General Hospital.

The great need for surgeons early in the war brought him to the Pacific theater in November 1942 when he went overseas as chief of surgery with the 39th General Hospital. Later he was made commanding officer of the hospital. The colonel was assigned to headquarters of the South Pacific Theater as Consultant in surgery in July 1943 and following his participation in the Northern Solomons campaign he was promoted to colonel in December of that year.

For his work in an original investigation in wound ballistics during the Bougainville campaign he was awarded the Legion of Merit. He received another promotion being made consultant in surgery for the Headquarters Pacific Ocean Areas. Then came the Southern Philippines and Marianas campaigns with the colonel directing much of the resulting surgery.

His knowledge for research came into play in May 1945 when he was named director of special research projects while serving at Manila as consulting surgeon at General Headquarters of the Armed Forces in the Pacific.

Before returning to this country he was transferred to General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo in August 1945.

A graduate of both Harvard University Medical School (M. D. 1924) and Yale University (M. S. 1929) Colonel Oughterson was a member of the faculty at Yale University School of Medicine from 1931 until he entered the service. During his early career he was pathologist, and later surgeon, at Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston, surgeon at New York hospital under Dr. Eugene Pool; resident surgeon at Bellevue Hospital. He studied under the William Harvey Cushing Fellowship at Yale and has postgraduate study in Europe.

IT'S SPRING FOR ROYALTY, TOO

GOSSIPS-ABOUT-LONDON are busy with conjectures about the possibility of a romance between Great Britain's Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of Greece, shown above. The subject, though conversational topic a year ago, became highlighted when the heir-apparent to the British throne attended a theater with a royal party of seven—Peter included, marking the first time the Greek prince has appeared in public with Elizabeth. And the Britons are not missing the fact that Peter is the princess' first strictly "non-guarded" escort. Which all adds up to spring is world-wide and the season for the fancy of a young man, be he prince or pauper. (International)

GEORGE REESER IS FIRST BABY BORN IN APRIL

Little George William Reeser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reeser, 128 Walnut street, is a lucky boy. He has the distinction of being the first baby born in April to Circleville parents.

The birth of George William occurred at 7:28 a. m. Monday, April 1, in the Reeser home, and Dr. F. C. Schaeffer, 124 Watt street, was the attending physician. The baby weighed seven and one-half pounds at birth.

The youngster and his parents will be showered with gifts from Circleville merchants and business institutions.

The gifts:

A 100 per cent wool baby blanket from the C. J. Schneider furniture store; a $1 savings account from the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.; infant's wear valued at $1 from the W. T. Grant company store; one quart of milk daily for two weeks from the Blue Ribbon Dairy; a floral tribute to the parents from Brehmer's; a carton of six 60-watt electric lamps to the parents from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company; and a free three months' subscription to the parents from The Circleville Herald.

HOUSE HUNTING BEING PLANNED BY UN COUNCIL

Former War Plant May Be
Home Of Peace Group,
Cramped In Bronx

NEW YORK, April 4—The United Nations security council is feeling mighty cramped in its temporary home in the great open spaces of the Bronx and is going house-hunting for itself and the rest of the UN organization.

It has its eye on a $17,783,000 former war plant at Lake Success, 17 miles from New York in the swank estate section of Long Island.

Some time tomorrow, the council—including the Russian delegation, which spared itself a number of tedious rides to the Bronx in the last week—is going out to Lake Success to look over the plant as a possible home for UN for the next five years. The plant was operated during the war by the Sperry Gyroscope company, and is owned by the federal government.

James J. Lyons, Bronx borough president, is fighting tooth and nail to convince the security council that it ought to stay on in that "garden spot" of New York. But a lot of the council members, who are neither impressed by the scenic beauty of the ride from their hotels to the Bronx nor by the hectic traffic conditions, are giving his arguments and assurances a diplomatic Bronx cheer.

The council will inspect the plant to see if it will provide sufficient space and accommodations for both the council and the assembly, the UN secretariat and office space for each delegation.

The plant is air-conditioned, U. S. Secretary of State James

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Sam and Lud,
War and Peace

Like everybody else, folks in our town talk about the best way of preserving peace. Some believe one thing, some another. But when it comes to Lud Denny and Sam Hackney—each has a self-invented Plan.

Talking things over at Bill Webster's, Sam and Lud got so worked up arguing against each other's Plan, they almost came to blows. Now each one thinks the other is a public enemy—for not agreeing with his Plan!

Seems to me there's the problem in a nutshell! No plan in the world can lead to peace—'til folks respect each other's views; allow for differences of taste; and learn to live with opposite opinions.

From where I sit, real peace begins with people—neighbor living tolerantly beside neighbor—regardless of who votes how, or who drinks beer or cider, or who wears city clothes or overalls. Peace starts with Tolerance!

The American Cancer Society has requested use of the uranium pile developed for atomic bomb construction for production of long-lived, radioactive carbon and hydrogen which are valuable in cancer research. Much of the money raised during April will go toward developing this and many other angles of cancer research.

Colonel Oughterson had a colorful army career, entering the service as a lieutenant colonel in the medical corps in January 1942 when he was assigned to the Army Medical School in Washington but three months later he was made chief of the surgical service at Lovell General Hospital.

The great need for surgeons early in the war brought him to the Pacific theater in November 1942 when he went overseas as chief of surgery with the 39th General Hospital. Later he was made commanding officer of the hospital.

The colonel was assigned to headquarters of the South Pacific Theater as Consultant in surgery in July 1943 and following his participation in the Northern Solomons campaign he was promoted to colonel in December of that year.

For his work in an original investigation in wound ballistics during the Bougainville campaign he was awarded the Legion of Merit. He received another promotion being made consultant in surgery for the Headquarters Pacific Ocean Areas. Then came the Southern Philippines and Marianas campaigns with the colonel directing much of the resulting surgery.

His knowledge for research came into play in May 1945 when he was named director of special research projects while serving at Manila as consulting surgeon at General Headquarters of the Armed Forces in the Pacific.

Before returning to this country he was transferred to General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo in August 1945.

A graduate of both Harvard University Medical School (M. D. 1924) and Yale University (M. S. 1929) Colonel Oughterson was a member of the faculty at Yale University School of Medicine from 1931 until he entered the service. During his early career he was pathologist, and later surgeon, at Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston, surgeon at New York hospital under Dr. Eugene Pool; resident surgeon at Bellevue Hospital. He studied under the William Harvey Cushing Fellowship at Yale and has postgraduate study in Europe.

IT'S SPRING FOR ROYALTY, TOO

GOSSIPS-ABOUT-LONDON are busy with conjectures about the possibility of a romance between Great Britain's Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of Greece, shown above. The subject, though conversational topic a year ago, became highlighted when the heir-apparent to the British throne attended a theater with a royal party of seven—Peter included, marking the first time the Greek prince has appeared in public with Elizabeth. And the Britons are not missing the fact that Peter is the princess' first strictly "non-guarded" escort. Which all adds up to spring is world-wide and the season for the fancy of a young man, be he prince or pauper. (International)

GEORGE REESER IS FIRST BABY BORN IN APRIL

Little George William Reeser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reeser, 128 Walnut street, is a lucky boy. He has the distinction of being the first baby born in April to Circleville parents.

The birth of George William occurred at 7:28 a. m. Monday, April 1, in the Reeser home, and Dr. F. C. Schaeffer, 124 Watt street, was the attending physician. The baby weighed seven and one-half pounds at birth.

The youngster and his parents will be showered with gifts from Circleville merchants and business institutions.

The gifts:

A 100 per cent wool baby blanket from the C. J. Schneider furniture store; a $1 savings account from the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.; infant's wear valued at $1 from the W. T. Grant company store; one quart of milk daily for two weeks from the Blue Ribbon Dairy; a floral tribute to the parents from Brehmer's; a carton of six 60-watt electric lamps to the parents from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company; and a free three months' subscription to the parents from The Circleville Herald.

HOUSE HUNTING BEING PLANNED BY UN COUNCIL

Former War Plant May Be
Home Of Peace Group,
Cramped In Bronx

NEW YORK, April 4—The United Nations security council is feeling mighty cramped in its temporary home in the great open spaces of the Bronx and is going house-hunting for itself and the rest of the UN organization.

It has its eye on a $17,783,000 former war plant at Lake Success, 17 miles from New York in the swank estate section of Long Island.

Some time tomorrow, the council—including the Russian delegation, which spared itself a number of tedious rides to the Bronx in the last week — is going out to Lake Success to look over the plant as a possible home for UN for the next five years. The plant was operated during the war by the Sperry Gyroscope company, and is owned by the federal government.

James J. Lyons, Bronx borough president, is fighting tooth and nail to convince the security council that it ought to stay on in that "garden spot" of New York. But a lot of the council members, who are neither impressed by the scenic beauty of the ride from their hotels to the Bronx nor by the hectic traffic conditions, are giving his arguments and assurances a diplomatic Bronx cheer.

The council will inspect the plant to see if it will provide sufficient space and accommodations for both the council and the assembly, the UN secretariat and office space for each delegation.

The plant is air-conditioned. U. S. Secretary of State James

CORN INSURANCE PLAN OUTLINED BY AAA HEADS

Experimental Program Being Carried Out On Champaign County Farms

When Congress reinstated the Crop Insurance Program for wheat and cotton in December 1944, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation was also authorized to offer trial insurance on other commodities for a period of three years and not to exceed 20 counties located in various parts of the United States.

Champaign county, Ohio was chosen as a trial county for all-risk corn insurance. The county was chosen by the Corporation (1) because of its geographic location in the Ohio corn belt area, (2) because of the large acreage of corn produced in Champaign county and (3) because of records that are available in connection with the historical production of corn in the Champaign county AAA office.

The growing of corn is a major enterprise in Champaign county. Farmers in that county annually plant around 60,000 acres of corn. The planting, cultivating and harvesting of corn is a sizeable undertaking in Champaign county. The operations involve an outlay of around two million dollars a year in such costs as labor, seed, fertilizer, gasoline and depreciation of equipment. The growing of corn is a very risky business, much more so than any other off the farm enterprise carried on in Champaign county. The growing of corn is subject to the elements of weather, plant disease, insect infestation and many other hazards beyond the grower's control.

The Crop Insurance Program as authorized by Congress is designed to offer the growers of corn, protection against all the uncontrollable hazards. The program was first offered to the growers in Champaign county in 1945. Due to its lateness in release, participation in the program was very light. Only 347 farmers participated in the program out of 2200 corn growers.

The 1945 season was unusually favorable to the producer of corn in Champaign county. So much so that the county average production was 14% above normal but in spite of this favorable season, a number of farmers sustained losses. These losses were due both to too much moisture and too little moisture as well as insect infestation. One out of every seven participating growers suffered a partial loss. This is true in a year when the corn crop in the county was 114% of a normal crop. This proves out statements that the growing of corn is a very risky business, that in normal years of production a very large number of farmers will sustain losses.

The program is being worked in favor of the grower from two ends, a higher yield and a lower premium cost. The premium rates for all-risk crop insurance cover only the crop losses and it does not include any amount for administrative purposes. Congress has made a separate appropriation to defray any and all costs in connection with the administration of the all-risk federal crop insurance program, that is why the premiums are so low and the protection offered is so great for so small a premium.

Three Girls Winners In County Poetry Contest

Winners in the Pickaway county poetry contest sponsored in connection with the Ohio department of education are being announced by the committee in charge.

The contest was held for the annual Ohio Poetry Day contest and was sponsored by the Ohio department of Education in all 88 counties.

In Pickaway county the committee on arrangements included Margaret Rooney, chairman, Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway county schools and the Rev. L. C. Sherburne, rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church. Judges were Mrs. W. W. Robinson, Mrs. Lloyd Jones and W. L. Bourke Jr.

Only three poems could be selected from all those submitted from Circleville and the county. Winners were selected in three age groups.

Announced as winners were: Best poem, grades 1 to 6, "My Monkey", by Leona Ramey, Circleville; honorable mention, "A Mermaid", by Sally Ann Eshelman, Circleville.

Best poem, grades 7 to 9, "Ma's Hat", by Sue Brown, Circleville; honorable mention, "The Brook", by Rosemary Lohr, Circleville.

Best poem, grades 10 to 12, "Perder Con Gloria" (To Lose with Glory), by Anne Renick, Circleville, honorable mention, connection with the administration of the all-risk federal crop insurance program, that is why the premiums are so low and the protection offered is so great for so small a premium.

"Allegory", by Anne Renick, Circleville.

The prize winning poems: Perder Con Gloria (To Lose With Glory)

A red cloak twists in the golden sun,
Instrument of art in the hands of one
Who knows the animals, black and strong.

Ole! Ole!
In the afternoon sun.

Grunt of the bull as he hits the horse,
Curse of the Picador, round and full.
Fight man! Fight! as the cape swings low.
Six dolls of gold as the mountain falls,
Waving their rags to the turquoise clouds.

Blaze of color in the dust of Madrid.
Blood on the sand where a life was lived.
Magic Gypsy with wrists of steel,
Fickle crowd, has your heart no feel?
Toss him roses from raven-winged hair,
He who danced in the wild beast's lair.

Ole! Ole!
In the afternoon sun.

The moon dips high or'er Granada's towers,
Stark, dark sentinels who call the hours.
Love leans out from its balcony high,
Tosses a kiss where the minutes fly.
Flame-jeweled eyes and heirloom

lace,
Shielding the nuance of a sacred face.
Fluttering fan and dripping shawl,
Waiting with patience the last long call.

A red cloak twists in the brazen sun,
Instrument of art in the hands of one
Who knows the animals sleek and strong.

Ole! Ole!
In the afternoon sun.

A slender sword, moon-rim bright
Awaits the beast from the halls of night.
Scimitar horns curve in the air,
Building arches on the golden stair.
Charge! Like the wild-wind over the plains,
Brushing the herd with a scent of pain.

Black hoofs thunder in the dust of Madrid,
Snort of the beast, and blaze of the steel,
Magic Gypsy from a romance land,
Tossed like a doll in the blood stained sand.
Drop him roses from raven-winged hair.

He who danced in the wild beast's lair.

Ole! Ole!
In the afternoon sun.
Day of Glory for the ones who won.

Tear-jeweled eyes and dripping lace,
Shielding the sorrow of a sacred face.

The moon sinks low or'er Granada's towers,
Stark, dark sentinels who toll out the hours.

Love droops down like a dying spark,
And shadows weave strange shapes in the dark.

Gilded jacket and crushing beast,
Fight in the clouds that blow from the east.

And the lightning roars like a sword's edge,
Driving the rain in a Devil's wedge.
Soaking the dust in the ring at Madrid,
Washing the rose where love's life bled.

Ole! Ole!
In the afternoon sun,
Cape of Glory for the ones who won,
Magic sword from the Gypsy's hands
And a tear-dewed rose wilt on Finis

MAGIC WEAPONS

THE most important minerals in the world are now Uranium and Thorium. They are worth far more than gold or any of the other metals—not so much for their intrinsic worth as for their military value. They are the metals from which the atomic bombs are made, and therefore cherished according to their accepted merits. No other known metals are capable of wreaking so much destruction. From present indications, if our world or any considerable parts of it are to be destroyed by human enterprise, they are the weapons that will do it. They won our last war for us, and have been respected and cherished accordingly.

There are different viewpoints about these tremendous weapons, now being stored secretly away in great quantities by American enterprise. Man, as is well known, is a fighting animal, and in case of peril he is generally willing to use what comes to his hand for defense. The Bomb is cherished accordingly, and will doubtless continue in its present high esteem until such time as man becomes civilized enough not to require such dreadful instruments.

AFTERMATH OF STRIKES

THE United States Department of Agriculture estimates that because of strike-delayed production, there will be 100,000 more orders for farm tractors than can be filled. In fact it will be late 1947 before supplies can catch up with demand for farm machinery. The scarcity in these lines is further heightened by the government's plan to export 12 per cent of this year's total tractor output, and about ten percent of all other agriculture implements.

The machinery is destined for the starving countries, on the theory that despite this country's farm machine shortage, it is better to send abroad implements than food. The machinery makes for self-help and economic independence in those ravaged lands. Because of past strikes in the United States, the world will be lacking in needed farm equipment, and therefore, despite all that can be done, food goals will fall short of the desired plenty.

JOBLESS PHOTOGRAPHERS?

THE navy now has developed a jet-propelled bomb that carries a television eye and receiver in its nose, through which the scenes the bomb "sees" can be flashed back to some one on the ground or on an auxiliary observation plane. Does this mean there is going to be less need of photographers in the world? Ever since the Industrial Revolution the threat of unemployment has hung over society, and now along comes a bomb to add to the poor workman's worries.

Not that news photographers seem anxious. The public desire for pictures and more pictures seems insatiable.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 4—Mr. Byrnes, the state secretary, received an unreported but official pat on the back for what was judged to be his cleverness in getting the Frenchman, Henri Bonnet, on the UN-Iran committee to cast the deciding vote.

The French government, since DeGaulle went out, has been considered another vote for Russia, a hidden, embarrassed, but practically sure Communist vote. But their skilled non-conformist, Mr. Leon Blum, arrived in Washington with his hand out for $2,500,000,000 from us at the same time Bonnet's hand was entrusted with the deciding vote between Messrs. Byrnes and Gromyko on the committee of the UN security council.

As it turned out, there was no decision in the committee, no vote for Bonnet to decide. The committee could not even get to that. It avoided all three propositions for action, and failed to agree on anything, but the disagreement had the ultimate effect of bringing prior consideration of the Iran matter before the council. So Mr. Byrnes won his program.

Of such subtleties is diplomacy inspired these days—but deeper. Listen:

The French government, led by the Communists, had tried earlier to force the United States and Britain into aggressive action to chase out the Franco government of Spain. Both Byrnes and the British went along with a three-power manifesto and white paper accusations against Franco, but when it came to moving troops, the Communist dominated government of France waved the sword belligerently alone. They moved troops up to the Spanish frontier, which is now an armed camp on both sides. The United States government knows if Franco is ousted by outside Communist pressure, Spain will get a Communist dominated government which may be even less cooperative with us than the Franco regime and more isolated. So we are clinging to his new Spanish policy, if Franco is to be overthrown, the Spaniards must do it; meanwhile, we will continue to send some moderate economic aid to the people, including oil and gasoline, as we did during the war.

But with Blum over here seeking big money for France, and Bonnet placed on a spot by Byrnes in UN, the French government has decided new steps of appeasement to the United States are in order. The Socialist party in full assemblage, and in full knowledge of its government coalition with the Communists, recommended last Sunday a new French foreign policy of closer cooperation with the United States in foreign affairs and cooperation with Russia (Communism) in domestic affairs. This will take doing, but the French have usually been equal to such occasions. For the present, the change means only the French may accept our recommendations for internationalization of the Ruhr and Saar, and settlement of German questions. Most American authorities, however, expect the change toward closer general cooperation to be temporary, that is, until Mr. Blum gets the money.

The comedy of complexities reaches its highest note in the fact that Mr. Blum himself refused to go into the cabinet of this French government. While he was willing to undertake its financial mission to America, he declined a cabinet job and is known to regard his government somewhat skeptically.

Emotional Conflict Resulting In Actual Physical Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FEW parents realize how all-important happiness is for the little child. Just as his growing body needs sunlight and fresh air, so his developing personality requires the atmosphere of love.

But love means different things to people, and parents generally seem to have a tendency to confuse it with pride. This is a mistake which is completely disruptive of child-happiness because it spurs parents to demand more from the child than he can give.

Forced Growth

A child cannot be forced into his various stages of growth. His nature must develop slowly from within and unfold gently like the unfolding leaf.

The child who lacks or who is pushed beyond his native capacities is likely to develop emotional conflicts. And emotional disturbances are reflected not only in deep-rooted personality defects, but in actual physical symptoms similar to those of disease.

Sometimes, there are grave behavior problems as well... bed-wetting, dirt eating, tics (repeated twitching of certain muscles), and a great deal of crying at night.

Repeated Headache

According to Dr. Herbert C. Miller, of Yale University School of Medicine, repeated attacks of headache in the absence of eye-strain, sinus infection, migraine and certain other disorders, are usually produced by conflict of the emotions or disturbing situations for which the child cannot find a ready solution.

He says, also, that attacks of pain over the heart lasting for a short time and accompanied by breathlessness may occur in children who have been pushed beyond their abilities by their parents. Sometimes, they may develop because a child has been forced to assume responsibilities too great for one of his years. Another cause is a feeling of insecurity because of disturbed home conditions or a feeling of not being loved.

Behavior Problems

In treating these behavior problems, it is important, first of all, to make sure there is no organic basis for the attacks as determined by a complete physical examination. Then, the parents must be made to realize that the child's symptoms are not due to a disease but, rather, to emotional disturbances. Thus, by the proper change in attitude on the part of the parents, a great deal can often be done to relieve the trouble.

Much can be done, also, to prevent these symptoms. The expectant mother should rid herself of superstitions and false notions concerning the raising of the child. She must not be afraid to handle the baby after it is born and she must not lose confidence in her ability to nurse him and care for him properly. A lack of confidence in the mother may easily be transferred to the baby.

If every parent would take stock of these things and realize that he must rid himself of his own uncertainties lest they weigh on his child with crushing force, we would have better homes and fewer problem children.

Jane Applebee, literary agent, regrets having invited her sister, Neal Tarrant, the glamorous actress, to share her New York apartment. Neal always took what she wanted, and in this instance it was Jane's erstwhile beau, Deane Kennard, rising young author. During a visit to Elmpoint, the country estate of her other sister, Dita Pearce, Jane was intrigued by Mrs. Brenda Knight, an attractive stranger who had lost her way and spent the night there. Elmpoint had been purchased completely furnished and Dita, soon in need of a nursery, had recently given Neal the lush fittings from one of its boudoirs. During the night Jane found Brenda Knight wandering about in the unfurnished room. On Wednesday Jane gave a reception for her most important author and house guest, Margot Case-Ingalls, recently arrived from Hollywood. Among the guests were Dr. Hunt Berwick, amateur criminologist and war buddy of Dita's husband, Dick; Brenda Knight, and Mr. Polly Woodford, famous couturier who lived across the hall. Neal arrived with a stream of admirers, including Deane Kennard and Tonio Valente, wealthy South American. Margot was infuriated when the guests deserted her to pay homage to Neal, and deliberately embarrassed Deane and Hunt, each of whom had met her on a previous occasion, by declaring she had never seen them before. Later that evening she asked Jane if she might have the apartment to herself on Friday afternoon. Jane suspected a man in the picture when Margot came, she was greatly worried about something. On Thursday before Neal left for his Boston opening (accompanied by Deane and Tonio) she gave Jane one of the huge pillows from her room because its rose color clashed with her hair. The apartment was empty when Jane arrived home late Friday afternoon, but in the hallway used by Margot and her unknown guest, Jane found the remnants of Deane's initialed cigarette. Fearing Hunt Berwick, who had come to take Margot and Jane to dinner, would see them, Jane threw the tell-tale butts down the incinerator. Jane and Hunt, puzzled by Margot's continued absence, went out to dinner, and later to Polly Woodford's, who tells of finding the doorman, Jack, in the elevator, earlier in the evening. The following morning Jane's maid, Rosa, finds the murdered body of Margot lying on the floor of Neal's room. Jane is telling the story.

you'd better be prepared for it. Don't forget, the great Ingalls was killed in your apartment."

I sat down limply. "Yes, And I was waiting for her in anger when all the time she was lying in Neal's room, murdered," I said miserably. I then proceeded to tell Claire all the small events of the previous afternoon. That is, until I came to my suppression of Deane's cigarette stubs. It hadn't dawned on me, up to then, that there might be a connection between my find and Margot's murder. Now that it did the shock struck me so dumb Claire had to coax and drag the story out of me.

She glanced at me pityingly when she had it all straight in the end, and then asked the inevitable question: "Are you in love with him, Jane?"

It was the last straw. "No, no, I almost screamed at her. 'Why does everyone ask me that? Can't I go out with a man a few times without being crazy about him?'"

"Sure you can," she admitted calmly. "I only wanted to know. And now that I do, and see you kept mum to the Berwick man out of good sense only, I say—'More power to you! You didn't know there'd been a crime when you found those stubs, so why should you tell him? If you want my advice: Just you stick to what you said yesterday when he mentions it in front of the police, which he's sure to do. If Deane killed Margot Ingalls they'll find it out without you. And if he didn't, it'll save him, and us, a lot of grief."

"But you don't really think he did it?" I worried.

Claire shook her head. "No, I don't. Mainly because I don't see why he should. Okay, she was rude to him Wednesday. But that isn't a sufficient reason to murder her, is it?"

"Not exactly," I agreed. "Besides, he may not have been in the apartment with Margot at all." Claire went on reflectively. "Someone may have planted the cigarette ends to make him look guilty."

It sounded wonderfully convincing. "Then what shall I tell the police?" I asked.

"The truth. With that one exception," Claire advised. "Concentrate on Ingalls' goofy talk Wednesday night. They're bound to get some clue out of it."

"Yes, and on her demand to have the place to herself for the afternoon yesterday," I supplemented Claire's suggestion. I was just going to go into details of what I was going to say when deep voices, from the direction of the living room, announced the arrival of the police.

The next moment Hunt knocked at my door.

"I thought you might like to have me in on the investigation," he told me in a low voice instead of a greeting. "So now, I am. I asked Jim Wortley—the friend in the district attorney's office I mentioned to you—to assign me to the case, and he made me a special deputy for it. Inspector Barry of the Homicide is waiting for you in the living room. Jane. Come on, let's go," he added, louder and more formally.

The living room was full of men. There were uniformed policemen by the score besides, as I found out later, finger-print men and photographers, and the medical examiner, Dr. Rosen—a smallish, rosy-cheeked, white-haired man—complete with several assistants.

Hunt led me straight to the Mrs. Charles Mason, North Court street.

OBVIOUS PLAY IS WRONG

ON MANY an occasion, what seems to be obviously the only way to play a certain combination of cards is really the wrong way. Take a suit in which the dummy holds the K-9-5-2 opposite the A-J-6-4. If you had to get all the tricks in it, the best plan is to lead to the K, finesse the J and then play the A, staking all on East having one, two or three cards headed by the Q or West having a singleton Q. But if you can afford one loser, but not two, to make your contract, that is no longer the correct play, no matter how obvious it looks to you.

After winning the club J lead with the K, he did not take the diamond K and then finesse the J. Had he done so, he would have been set. Instead, he scored the diamond A, then led toward his own hand. When West played the 8, he finessed his 9, which won. That assured his contract. Note that, if it had lost to the 10 or Q, he still would have been okay. To appreciate the soundness of his method, lay out these cards and try the defenders' various holdings against them, then remember what you learn.

expirations date.

Despite President Truman's plea, a majority of the members reportedly felt that, with the war over, the armed services would be sustained on a voluntary basis.

That was the position of Chairman Thomas (D) Utah, of the Senate Military Affairs committee, and to some extent, the position of Chairman May (D) Kentucky, of the House Military Affairs committee.

However, the Red shadow extending across Europe and Manchuria has changed the picture. The belief now prevails that in order to live up to world commitments and preserve her own security, the United States must remain in fighting trim.

It is probable that the Draft act will be extended for six months under a bill introduced by May.

Backers of the bill point out that the act can be re-extended again and again until the world is more settled and the clouds of possible wars vanish.

● A STUDY OF MONTHLY PRODUCTION figures for the entire American aircraft industry for 1945 shows why more than a million men and women who worked in plane plants lost their jobs after the collapse of Japan.

In January, 1945, American plane plants turned out 6,535 fighting aircraft of all types. The peak for the year was reached in March, when 7,053 were produced.

Even two months before Japan surrendered, the cutbacks began because the Pacific enemy showed no desire to fight in the skies. In June 5,794 planes were produced.

In July the total dropped to 4,764.

During August, when Japan surrendered, only 2,869 planes were manufactured. The first full month of peace, September, the total was slashed to 766. Then the decline was rapid: October, 458; November, 249, and December, 245.

This year it is expected that only 2,000 military planes will be produced for the entire 12 months.

Aviation experts feel, however, that the aircraft industry as a whole may be crippled so badly that it will take years to reassemble lost technical skill in case of another emergency.

Abdominal Pain

Perhaps the most common symptom due to emotional conflicts is pain in the abdomen. Such attacks of pain, even when accompanied by vomiting and constipation, may merely be an attempt on the part of the child to draw attention to himself.

In trying to determine just what is producing the emotional conflict responsible for the many symptoms, it is necessary not only to study the child's mental condition but also emotions of the parents.

Parents so often make the mistake of not trying to find out just what the child's capabilities are, but instead, try to mold the boy or girl according to some pattern which they select and, usually, there is no stimulation given to the child to live up to these ideals of the parents. Such an attitude will bring on an emotional conflict which affects both child and parents.

Behavior Problems

In treating these behavior problems, it is important, first of all, to make sure there is no organic basis for the attacks as determined by a complete physical examination. Then, the parents must be made to realize that the child's symptoms are not due to a disease but, rather, to emotional disturbances. Thus, by the proper change in attitude on the part of the parents, a great deal can often be done to relieve the trouble.

Much can be done, also, to prevent these symptoms. The expectant mother should rid herself of superstitions and false notions concerning the raising of the child. She must not be afraid to handle the baby after it is born and she must not lose confidence in her ability to nurse him and care for him properly. A lack of confidence in the mother may easily be transferred to the baby.

If every parent would take stock of these things and realize that he must rid himself of his own emotional conflicts, fears and uncertainties lest they weigh on his child with crushing force, we would have better homes and fewer problem children.

CHAPTER TWELVE

CLAIRE'S arm around my waist startled me out of my thoughts. "Go get some clothes on," she said gently. "You don't want the police to find you like this. Or—haven't you called them?"

"I've called Hunt Berwick. He said he'd do all that's necessary." I told her dully, on our way to my room.

"Swell!" Claire approved. "Does he live near by?"

"No. Somewhere in the East Eighties. A friend lent him his apartment there," I said, struggling into a dress.

"Fine. Then we have a few minutes," Claire was apparently pleased. "A blessing I hole up around the corner and was all dressed and ready to go off for the week-end when you phoned."

I started to apologize for spoiling her plans, but she cut me off: "Stop it! We haven't time for politeness. Come on, let's have a rehearsal instead. What are you going to tell the police?"

I gaped at her. "Tell the police?" Why. I have nothing to tell them. "That's what YOU think," Claire told her grimly. "They'll grill you till you're done to a crisp, baby, and you'd better be prepared for it. Don't forget, the great Ingalls was killed in your apartment."

I sat down limply. "Yes. And I was waiting for her in anger when all the time she was lying in Neal's room, murdered," I said miserably. I then proceeded to tell Claire all the small events of the previous afternoon. That is, until I came to my suppression of Deane's cigarette stubs. It hadn't dawned on me, up to then, that there might be a connection between my find and Margot's murder. Now that it did the shock struck me so dumb Claire had to coax and drag the story out of me.

She glanced at me pityingly when she had it all straight in the end, and then asked the inevitable question: "Are you in love with him, Jane?"

"It was the last straw. 'No, no, no!' I almost screamed at her. 'Why does everyone ask me that? Can't I go out with a man a few times without being crazy about him?'"

"Sure you can," she admitted calmly. "I only wanted to know. And now that I do, and see you kept mum to the Berwick man out of good sense only, I say—'More power to you! You didn't know there'd been a crime when you told him? If you should what you said yesterday when he mentions it in front of the police, which he's sure to do. If Deane killed Margot Ingalls they'll find it out without you. And if he didn't, it'll save him, and us, a lot of grief.'"

"But you don't really think he did it?" I worried.

Claire shook her head. "No, I don't. Mainly because I don't see why he should. Okay, she was rude to him Wednesday. But that isn't a sufficient reason to murder her, is it?"

"Not exactly," I agreed.

"Besides, he may not have been in the apartment with Margot at all," Claire went on reflectively. "Someone may have planted the cigarette ends to make him look guilty."

It sounded wonderfully convincing.

"Then what shall I tell the police?" I asked.

"The truth. With that one exception," Claire advised. "Concentrate on Ingalls' goofy talk Wednesday night. They're bound to get some clue out of it."

"Yes, and on her demand to have the place to herself for the afternoon yesterday," I supplemented Claire's suggestion. I was just going to go into details of what I was going to say when deep voices, from the direction of the living room, announced the arrival of the police.

The next moment Hunt knocked at my door.

"I thought you might like to have me in on the investigation," he told me in a low voice instead of a greeting. "So now, I am. I asked Jim Wortley—the friend in the district attorney's office I mentioned to you—to assign me to the case, and he made me a special deputy for it. Inspector Barry of the Homicide is waiting for you in the living room. Jane. Come on, let's go," he added, louder and more formally.

The living room was full of men. There were uniformed policemen by the score besides, as I found out later, finger-print men and photographers, and the medical examiner, Dr. Rosen—a smallish, rosy-cheeked, white-haired man—complete with several assistants.

Hunt led me straight to the most important of all—Inspector Nelson Barry of the Homicide squad, a tall, broad-shouldered man around 40, very Irish looking and with a twinkle in his blue eyes even murder couldn't quite extinguish, whom I liked instantly.

"Sorry you're having this trouble," he greeted me pleasantly. "If you don't mind we'll have a little talk about it later. You may be able to help me. But first have a look at this. Ever seen it before?"

The "this" he held out to me in his handkerchief was Neal's white jade paper knife, its blade stained suspiciously.

"Yes. It's from my sister's desk," I said faintly. "And I know it's what—Margot was stabbed with it. I saw it before you—pulled it out."

The inspector put the knife back in his pocket after wrapping the handkerchief around it carefully. "Glad you recognize it, too. Your housekeeper has already identified it," he told me. "It won't do us much good, though, beyond that. Too much carving to show finger prints."

Then he smiled at Rosa, who was just coming in with a tray full of steaming cups, took one and told her, "It's against all rules, but I never could resist a cup of good coffee," and started sipping the strong, hot brew with relief.

I didn't know anything about police rules, but when someone's glad he accepted, and liked, Rosa's coffee, and how I welcomed it myself!

When presently we both had returned our empty cups to Rosa's tray the inspector suggested, "Well, let's sit down now, and you tell me all you know, in comfort. Your way, Berwick—guess he told you he's been deputized to help me?—has already given me his version of what happened yesterday."

I didn't know anything about police rules, but when someone's glad he accepted, and liked, Rosa's coffee, and how I welcomed it myself!

His jovial informality, plus the coffee, did much to reassure me. I sat down beside him and soon found myself relating all that had occurred the previous day. Omitting only my discovery of Deane's cigarette stubs.

"I see. You came home half an hour later than usual Friday afternoon—at six instead of half past five—because the murdered woman had asked you for the undisturbed use of your apartment till then. When did she ask for it? Wednesday night? That means, she'd either made her date before then or was sure she could make it by Friday," he mused. And then nodded toward a grizzled policeman in uniform who was hovering nearby, notebook in hand: "Better tell Mullins there the names of every man she saw, so far as you know, or talked with on the telephone those days. They're probably all as innocent as newborn babes, but we've got to investigate them. Berwick can't use his psychological talents unless he has a suspect."

I wondered if Hunt, who was standing close to us, would resent the half-leading slur. But he only looked amused.

"How do you know I haven't one already? Or, at least, a clue to one?" he challenged. "I wanted to let Miss Applebee tell you about it, but you sidetracked her to Wednesday night before she was through with yesterday."

Then he turned to me, with a positively beaming smile. "Tell Inspector Barry about the cigarette ends, Jane," he invited.

"The Authority on Authorities"

OBVIOUS PLAY IS WRONG

ON MANY an occasion, what seems to be obviously the only way to play a certain combination of cards is really the wrong way. Take a suit in which the dummy holds the K-9-5-2 opposite the A-J-6-4. If you had to get all the tricks in it, the best plan is to lead to the K, finesse the J and then play the A, staking all on East having one, two or three cards headed by the Q or West having a singleton Q. But if you can afford one loser, but not two, to make your contract, that is no longer the correct play, no matter how obvious it looks to you.

THE sidereal operations governing this day urge the pushing of major propositions or opportunities, with determined effort and exceptional plans or techniques. Well-organized plans and methods may be advanced by those in influential places, ready to co-operate on sound and lasting projects.

The personal equation is not to be overlooked, since social, romantic and cultural factors may influence advancement of sound and ambitious objectives in any field.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be stimulated to high endeavor in putting over operations of large scope and enduring promise. Such impetus is likely to attract the attention and substantial co-operation of those in influential positions, won over by constructive and objective efforts and enterprise, as well as by personal elements of social, domestic or romantic significance. does not waste the patience of the players trying to figure them out or the points of himself and his partner by guessing. His knowledge of them constitutes one of his working tools.

With three tricks apiece in eight in spades, hearts and clubs, his assignment was to get three in diamonds, or in other words, lose only one diamond trick. He accomplished it.

After winning the club J lead with the K, he did not take the diamond K and then finesse the J. Had he done so, he would have been set. Instead, he scored the diamond A, then led toward his own hand. When West played the 8, he finessed his 9, which won. That assured his contract. Note that, if it had lost to the 10 or Q, he still would have been okay.

To appreciate the soundness of his method, lay out these cards and try the defenders' various holdings against them, then remember what you learn.

Republicans Plan Political Capital

Reconversion Laws Lacking, Claims GOP

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Republicans intend to make political capital this year out of the apparent failure of the Democratic majorities in Congress to function.

They are planning to place before the voters the record of the Truman administration. This record up to the present time is one of almost complete failure so far as reconversion legislation is concerned.

In the minds of Republican political observers, this will be a telling argument with the voters. Republicans, in their bid for a return to power, intend to assert that the Democratic party, on its recent record, is unable to shoulder responsibilities of office.

They are going to recite as proof of their point, failure of President Truman to deliver on the overwhelming majority of his legislative recommendations.

Leading Republicans in Congress believe they have an excellent chance of capturing control of the House in the November elections. If so, it will be the first time Republicans have been in control of the lower chamber since 1931.

A Republican sweep in the congressional elections this year would be widely interpreted as presaging a victory in the 1948 presidential election.

Miss Roberta B. Bolin Is Bride of John Peters

Former Circleville Resident Wed In Columbus

Miss Roberta Brown Bolin and John O. Peters were married Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Stuart R. Bolin, Columbus. Mrs. Bolin and the late Mr. Bolin were former residents of Circleville.

The Rev. Robert Lee Bull, Jr., of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Columbus, performed the ceremony before an improvised altar of huckleberry foliage and white gladioli, banked with single white cathedral tapers, in the living room.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Stuart R. Bolin Jr., wore an original gown of white crepe. The simplicity of the dress was accented by the full drapery that extended from the shoulders to form a small train. An illusion sash was held in place by a circle of stephanotis. For "something old," Miss Bolin carried a rose-point lace fan to which a shower of white orchids and stephanotis were fastened. Mrs. J. G. Hollenbeck, aunt of the bride, carried this fan at her own wedding. Preceding the bride to the altar were her three sisters, Mrs. Leslie Henry, Toledo, gown in dove gray; Mrs. John Burkert, Columbus, wearing a bluish pink, and Mrs. Vaughn R. Chase, Newark and Dayton, in ice blue. They wore gardenias and freesia in their hair. Capt. Fred W. Myers, Tauragua, Pa., served as best man for the groom.

Leslie Henry, Toledo, John W. Burkert, Columbus, and Vaughn R. Chase, Dayton, served as ushers. Mrs. Bolin, was dressed in a dinner dress of Dubonnet lace. Pinned to the shoulder of her gown was an orchid. Mrs. Paul E. Peters, Lockbourne, mother of the groom, was gown in a floor-length frock of dusty rose and also wore an orchid.

Mrs. T. W. Brown, aunt of the bride, and Miss Mary McCrady of Circleville were asked to assist at the reception following the ceremony.

Ceiling Reading For Veterans Available Thru Efforts DUV's

Mrs. O. C. King, president, presided at the regular meeting of the Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War which was held Tuesday evening in the Post Room at Memorial Hall.

During the short business session a communication was read from the chairman of the national defense committee of the order in which she explained the work that her committee was doing for the year and told what she hoped each tent would be able to do to aid in this work.

The project, she stated, was to furnish micro-filmed book projectors for use in the 328 domestic military hospitals. These projectors are controlled by the patient with little effort, even though he cannot hold a book to read. "Ceiling reading," as it is called, is modern science's newest gloom chaser for the bedridden. A clear, readable image is thrown onto the ceiling directly over the patient's head by a small 20 pound projector.

These projectors are delivered to the hospitals, fully equipped and ready for use by the Red Cross at a cost of about $180 each. The national defense committee of the Daughters of the Union Veterans has arranged to supply the Red Cross with as many of these projectors as is deemed necessary.

A donation of at least 10 cents per member is asked for this project from each tent and the local tent voted a donation of $10 to the cause.

Safety Is Subject At Meeting Of Nebraska Grange

At the meeting of the Nebraska Grange Tuesday night, plans were announced for a white elephant sale to be held at the next meeting April 16, at 8 p. m. Everyone is asked to bring an article for sale. There will also be a contest for kitchen curtains and prune bread.

EDWARD KIRWIN, CLEVELAND GIRL TO BE MARRIED

Announcement is being made in Cleveland of the engagement of Miss Virginia Hoeffler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Hoeffler of that city to Edward J. Kirwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kirwin, Columbus. The prospective bridegroom is the brother of Miss Margaret and Miss Mary Kirwin, West Mound street.

Miss Hoeffler is a graduate of St. Joseph Academy and Notre Dame college. Mr. Kirwin attended Notre Dame university and was graduated from the school of law of Ohio State university. He was recently discharged from the U. S. Army after three years' service, 34 months of which were spent in the South Pacific with the 13th Air Force. He is now employed as secretary to the state board of tax appeals.

The wedding will take place in Cleveland on June 29 at St. Angela church.

Mrs. Russell Hedges will be in charge of the next meeting.

A safety program was presented consisting of a quiz which was conducted by Harold Hines, and a demonstration of the safe use of the electric iron which was given by Mrs. Chester Noecker, and Mrs. Hines. A safety film, "A Stitch in Time," was shown.

Following the program a period of recreation was enjoyed.

The Nebraska Grange will confer the third degree upon candidates for membership at Canal Winchester on April 13.

50th Anniversary Is Observed By Mr. and Mrs. Garrison

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Garrison, New Holland, observed their golden wedding anniversary at a reception and tea Sunday afternoon at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Britton, near Yellowbud.

Mrs. Garrison, the former Elma Donohue, and Mr. Garrison were married March 26, 1896. They have two daughters, Mrs. Dwight Grimes, Columbus, and Mrs. Britton.

Grandchildren include, Robert Britton, Eugene Britton, Miss Patsey Britton, Gary Britton, Myron Grimes, Richard Grimes, and Miss Carol Louann Grimes. All of the grandsons with the exception of Richard, were present at the reception.

Arrangements of golden-colored flowers decorated the table which was centered with a large two-tiered wedding cake. The grandchildren presided in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wright and W. L. Britton, Saltcreek township; and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Britton, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hosler, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Farmer, New Holland, were among the out-of-town guests.

Miss Mary Ellen Grable, Darbyville, entertained at a banquet held in the Darbyville school, Friday. She will also entertain at the Southern hotel, Columbus, Monday.

Past Chiefs Meet With Mrs. Evans

Mrs. Loring Evans, East Main street, entertained the members of the Past Chief's club with dinner at the Chicken Inn Tuesday night. Fourteen members were present.

Following the meal the group went to the home of Mrs. Evans where a business session in charge of Mrs. G. M. Newton, president, and a social hour was held.

PTS TO MEET

Members of the Jackson township Parent Teachers Society, will meet in the Jackson township school house at 7 p. m., Monday night. A covered dish supper and election of officers will be held at this time.

50th Anniversary Is Observed By Mr. and Mrs. Garrison

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Garrison, New Holland, observed their golden wedding anniversary at a reception and tea Sunday afternoon at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Britton, near Yellowbud.

Mrs. Garrison, the former Elma Donohue, and Mr. Garrison were married March 26, 1896. They have two daughters, Mrs. Dwight Grimes, Columbus, and Mrs. Britton.

Grandchildren include, Robert Britton, Eugene Britton, Miss Patsey Britton, Gary Britton, Myron Grimes, Richard Grimes, and Miss Carol Louann Grimes. All of the grandsons with the exception of Richard, were present at the reception.

Arrangements of golden-colored flowers decorated the table which was centered with a large two-tiered wedding cake. The grandchildren presided in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wright and W. L. Britton, Saltcreek township; and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Britton, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hosler, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Farmer, New Holland, were among the out-of-town guests.

Miss Mary Ellen Grable, Darbyville, entertained at a banquet held in the Darbyville school, Friday. She will also entertain at the Southern hotel, Columbus, Monday.

SENATE HOPES TO VOTE TODAY ON WAGE BILL

Compromise On Minimum Pay Plan Expected To Get Solons' Approval

WASHINGTON, April 4—The senate pressed toward a vote today on the compromise plan to raise the national minimum wage from 40 to 60 cents an hour.

The compromise was virtually assured senate approval. It had the backing of administration groups who originally sponsored a graduated scale starting at 65 cents and going to 75 cents at the end of four years, as well as others who favored 55 cents for 18 months and 60 cents thereafter.

The senate still faced two and possibly three major fights, however, before a final vote which would send the measure to the house. They involved:

1. The proposal to broaden coverage of the present minimum wage law to cover an additional 3,500,000 workers, principally chain store employees.
2. A farm bloc attempt to attach a rider which would increase the parity price on farm products.
3. A declaration by Chairman Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., of the senate agriculture committee, that he would push an amendment to prohibit "any interference" by government agencies with margin requirements for trading on cotton exchanges.

Thomas and other cotton state senators were aroused by yesterday's government order boosting the margin requirements.

1946 MERRICK LECTURES WILL START APRIL 23

DELAWARE, O., April 4—The Spiritual Rehabilitation of the World will be the theme of the 1946 Merrick lectures at Ohio Wesleyan university, to be held April 23-25, it was announced today by President H. J. Burgstahler.

A group of internationally prominent speakers will be heard on the series, which will be held in Gray chapel on the Ohio Wesleyan campus.

The lecture series is an annual university event named in honor of Rev. Frederick Merrick, second Ohio Wesleyan president, 1860-73. The series each year occasions widespread interest because of the outstanding speakers who are brought to the campus to discuss current world problems. Guest speakers include Dr. Eddy Asirvatham, head of the department of political science and public administration at the University of Madras, India, Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of the Methodist church, Dr. Walter W. VanKirk, executive secretary, Department of International Justice and Good Will of the Federal Council of Churches in America, and Dr. Samuel Cartwright, general secretary, Federal Council of Churches of Christ.

YOUR CHECK LIST FOR ELECTRICAL SERVICE

- ADEQUATE SERVICE ENTRANCE—Large enough wires and service switch to carry sufficient load for the entire home.
- ENOUGH CIRCUITS—There's a limit to the number of lights and appliances electrical wiring can supply—make sure your new wiring has enough circuits to supply all areas.
- HIGH QUALITY WIRING DEVICES—Convenience outlets and switches are made in different quantities—at varying prices. It pays to install the best—Underwriters' Approved quality wiring devices.
- MODERN PROTECTION—Install circuit-breakers, an improvement over fuses. This protective device accommodates momentary peak loads, "cuts-out" only when the extra load continues.
- LARGE ENOUGH WIRES—Wire of a given size can carry only so much electricity. Be sure wiring is adequate for present and future needs.
- ENOUGH OUTLETS—An outlet for every appliance and lamp, plus a few extra.

FORMER CHAMPS PRESENT FOR 10TH MASTERS

Nelson And Hogan Favored
To Take Top Prize
In Big Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4—Big Byron Nelson and little Ben Hogan were rated 3 to 1 favorites to cop the $2,000 first prize money in the revived Masters' golf tournament, opening today at the Augusta national golf club after a three-year wartime lapse.

A field of 51 of the nation's top golfers stood ready and primed for the big event which will see Nelson defending the Masters' title he won in 1942 by outlasting Hogan by one stroke.

Bob Cochran of St. Louis and Leland Gibson of Kansas City tee off at 12:24 p. m. to lead the way in the 72-hole event which carries total cash prizes of $10,000. Second place will be worth $1,500 and third place $1,000.

The field in the 10th playing of the traditionally tough invitational tournament found six of the seven former Masters' champions on hand. The only one missing was Gene Sarazen, winner of the play-off of the 1935 tourney against Craig Wood. He wired from Detroit that business would keep him from attending.

The other six previous winners are Horton Smith, who won the first event in 1934 and who repeated in 1936; Nelson, the only other two-time winner who copped the event in 1937 and again in 1942; Henry Picard, winner in 1938; Ralph Guldahl, who turned in the tournaments' lower score of 279 in 1939; Jimmy Demaret, who won in 1940, and Craig Wood, who copped first prize in 1941, all were set to repeat their past wins.

STONEROCK AND HEINE SET PACE IN PIN LEAGUE

Harold Stonerock and Dr. W. F. Heine took individual honors in Wednesday night bowling at Roll and Bowl.

Stonerock had 558 high total and Dr. Heine posted a 225 high game and finished with 545 total.

Kiwanis No. 1 won two games from Rotary; Circleville Roofing copped two from Gordon's Auto and Kiwanis No. 2 grabbed two games from Elks No. 2 in matches rolled.

MEXICO CITY, April 4—President Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican baseball league, definitely not a tin-horn gambler, fired back a fast ball at his American critics today with an offer to bet $2,000,000 that his eight-team circuit will play a full season this year.

Angered at big league owners in the United States who predict that his Mexican loop will fold up, Pasquel said he would deposit the two million dollars in the National City bank of New York City and that any doubter—or group of doubters—could take the bet by making an equal deposit.

The mustachioed Jorge, oldest of the five multi-millionaire Pasquel brothers, isn't a gambler or a showoff by nature. He's simply a millionaire with his dander up. And he's got a couple of million dollars which burns a bigger hole in his pocket every time he reads about somebody ridiculing his league.

"I've got more to bet if necessary," he said, in all seriousness. Jorge, a non-smoker who practically always wears an elegant smoking jacket, then leaned back in his swivel chair, looked around his stylish office and threw three quick curves:

1. He said he would sue Jean Pierre Roy, Brooklyn Dodger pitcher for the $3,300 advanced him when he signed a contract with Bernardo Pasquel, second oldest brother and league vice president, in Havana, Cuba.
2. He invited United States sports writers to come to Mexico—expenses paid—to see how baseball operates south of the border.

FT. WORTH, Tex., April 4—The same old pitching problem came back to haunt Joe McCarthy today as the New York Yankees' manager looked around for a hurler to start for the Bronx Bombers in their American League opener, April 16. Spud Chandler was scheduled to get the opening day assignment until yesterday when the Ft. Worth Texas League club scored three runs off him in the first four innings and went on to score a 5 to 4 victory.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 4—The Pittsburgh Pirates boasted today that they had the rookie find of the spring season in Ralph Kiner, 23-year-old outfielder from Alhambra, Calif., who has been the Bucs' chief long-ball hitter throughout the training season. Although the Pirates went down to defeat yesterday, 6 to 2, at the hands of the Chicago White Sox, Kiner continued to star by driving in both of the National Leaguers' runs with a 440-foot home run in the fourth inning with Vic Barnhart on base.

LEESBURG, Fla., April 4—The Cincinnati Reds' five-game losing streak was finally broken today but Manager Bill McKechnie still was dissatisfied with his player's showing and promised more drastic shakeups before the club opens its National League season. Dain Clay's home run over the left field fence in the 11th inning gave the Reds a 9 to 8 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday in the first game of a doubleheader but the American Leaguers made it up right away. Tommy McBride clouted a two-run homer in the sixth inning of the night cap to give the Red Sox a 2 to 1 seven-inning victory behind the six-hit pitching of Dave Ferris.

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 4—The Cleveland Indians, who had trouble against the Yankees during Spring training, weren't faring any better today against the Yanks.

Association farm club, the Kansas City Blues.

Catcher Charley Silvers, recently farmed out to the Blues, doubled home two runs in the eighth inning off of Tom Ferrick, and his teammates added one more yesterday to gain a 5 to 3 victory over the American Leaguers.

Some countries have a luxury tax on bathtubs. When Junior heard that he decided some foreigners have all the luck.

Guaranteed better than:*
soap, soap flakes, soap powders
and washing compounds for
50 different home uses...

For washing dishes, glassware, china, silverware, cooking utensils, aluminum, porcelain ware, kitchen fixtures, sinks, refrigerators, stoves, painted walls, woodwork, enameled surfaces, hardwood floors, linoleum, tile, bathroom fixtures, lamps, windows, mirrors, furniture, venetian blinds, chandeliers, metal, lighting fixtures, lamp shades, draperies, tapestries, upholstery, rugs, carpets, lace curtains.

For washing your dainty underthings, silks, rayons, nylons, hosiery, foundation garments, woollens, sweaters, scarfs, blankets, quilts, bedspreads.

For washing and deodorizing baby's diapers, baby's clothes, blankets and toys. After being washed in Sutho Suds, baby's diapers, clothing and blankets are soft, gentle to baby's tender skin. Because Sutho Suds contains NO soap, NO harsh alkalis, Sutho Suds is NON-irritating to baby's skin. Helps prevent diaper-rash. Recommended by doctors.

For your bubble bath and baby's bubble bath. Luxurious, soothing, wonderful! Makes skin soft, smooth, lovely! Leaves no ring in bathtub.

For your shampoo. So safe and gentle it causes NO eye-sting! Washes hair and scalp really clean! Rinses quickly and thoroughly leaving your hair naturally beautiful, soft and lovely.

Save time, effort and money! Quick, easy, economical to use! A tablespoon of Sutho Suds in warm water is plenty to wash the average family's dishes. A tablespoon of Sutho Suds in cool water is plenty to wash dainty underthings and hosiery. Put Sutho Suds in first. Run water full force.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE. You don't risk a cent when you try SUTHO SUDS. If you are not entirely satisfied that SUTHO SUDS is better than soap, better than soap flakes, better than soap powders, better than washing compounds for the 50 different home uses listed, just return your partly-used box of SUTHO SUDS to your grocer and the entire purchase price of your SUTHO SUDS will be promptly refunded in full.

GIVE YOUR HANDS A Beauty Treatment
You give your hands a beauty treatment every time you use SUTHO SUDS for washing dishes, silks, rayons, hosiery, woollens, woodwork, etc. SUTHO SUDS leave your hands soft, smooth and lovely.

Sutho Suds is SAFE for washing your finest silks, rayons and woollens. Sutho Suds cannot possibly harm the most delicate fabrics because Sutho Suds contains NO harsh alkalis, NO acids, NO rough abrasives, NO strong chemicals. You can even wash flimsy silk lamp shades in Sutho Suds with perfect safety. Sutho Suds is so safe and gentle that it is highly recommended for bathing BABIES. Used by leading hospitals.

Sutho Suds costs LESS than soap flakes and soap powders per washing. The concentrated contents of each package of Sutho Suds weighs 2 or 3 times as much as an equal size package of soap flakes... and you use much less Sutho Suds per washing.

No "Soapy-Film". Sutho Suds contains NO soap, makes NO soapy lather to cling to your dishes or clothes. Neither the "suds" from Sutho Suds nor the "suds" from soap powders and flakes have any real washing or cleaning value. The cleaner in the water does all the washing and cleaning. The clean, sparkling, sudsy bubbles from Sutho Suds gradually disappear during use, leaving "miracle" Sutho Water which washes and cleans much better than solutions of soap, soap flakes or soap powders with heavy, soapy, lathery, film-leaving suds.

Dain Clay's home run over the left field fence in the 11th inning gave the Reds a 9 to 8 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday in the first game of a doubleheader but the American Leaguers made it up right away. Tommy McBride clouted a two-run homer in the sixth inning of the night cap to give the Red Sox a 2 to 1 seven-inning victory behind the six-hit pitching of Dave Ferris.

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 4—The Cleveland Indians, who had trouble against the Yankees during Spring training, weren't faring any better today against the Yanks.

Association farm club, the Kansas City Blues. Catcher Charley Silvers, recently farmed out to the Blues, doubled home two runs in the eighth inning off of Tom Ferrick, and his teammates added one more yesterday to gain a 5 to 3 victory over the American Leaguers.

Some countries have a luxury tax on bathtubs. When Junior heard that he decided some for-signers have all the luck.

A POST-WAR MIRACLE
you can use in your home NOW!
SUTHO SUDS
THE NEW AMAZING SUDSY WASHING POWDER
Perfecting during the war for vital war uses. Now you can use it in your home to work washing and cleaning miracles!
Sutho Suds, the new amazing washing powder contains NO soap, NO harsh alkalis, NO rough abrasives! It is NON-Alkaline, NON-Acid, NON-Irritating, NON-Sneezing! Sutho Suds works perfectly in hard, soft, warm or cool water!
*Guaranteed better than:
soap, soap flakes, soap powders
and washing compounds for
50 different home uses...
For washing dishes, glassware, china, silverware, cooking utensils, aluminum, porcelain ware, kitchen fixtures, sinks, refrigerators, stoves, painted walls, woodwork, enameled surfaces, hardwood floors, linoleum, tile, bathroom fixtures, lamps, windows, mirrors, furniture, venetian blinds, chandeliers, metal, lighting fixtures, lamp shades, draperies, tapestries, upholstery, rugs, carpets, lace curtains.
For washing your delectable underthings, silks, rayons, nylons, hosiery, foundation garments, woolens, sweaters, scarfs, blankets, quilts, bedspreads.
For washing and deodorizing baby's diapers, baby's clothes, blankets and toys. After being washed in Sutho Suds, baby's diapers, clothing and blankets are soft, gentle to baby's tender skin. Because Sutho Suds contains NO soap, NO harsh alkalis, Sutho Suds is NON-irritating to baby's skin. Helps prevent diaper-rash. Recommended by doctors.
For your bubble bath and baby's bubble bath. Luxurious, soothing, wonderful! Makes skin soft, smooth, lovely! Leaves no ring in bathtub.
For your shampoo. So safe and gentle it causes NO eye-sting! Washes hair and scalp really clean! Rinses quickly and thoroughly leaving your hair naturally beautiful, soft and lovely.
Save time, effort and money! Quick, easy, economical to use! A tablespoon of Sutho Suds in warm water is plenty to wash the average family's dishes. A tablespoon of Sutho Suds in cool water is plenty to wash dainty underthings and hosiery. Put Sutho Suds in first. Run water full force.
MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE. You don't risk a cent when you try SUTHO SUDS. If you are not entirely satisfied that SUTHO SUDS is better than soaps, better than soap flakes, better than soap powders, better than washing compounds for the 50 different home uses listed, just return your partly-used box of SUTHO SUDS to your grocer and the entire purchase price of your SUTHO SUDS will be promptly refunded in full.
GIVE YOUR HANDS A Beauty Treatment
You give your hands a beauty treatment every time you use SUTHO SUDS for washing dishes, silks, rayons, hosiery, woolens, woodwork, etc. SUTHO SUDS leave your hands soft, smooth and lovely.
Sutho Suds is SAFE for washing your finest silks, rayons and woolens. Sutho Suds cannot possibly harm the most delicate fabrics because Sutho Suds contains NO harsh alkalis, NO acids, NO rough abrasives, NO strong chemicals. You can even wash flimsy silk lamp shades in Sutho Suds with perfect safety. Sutho Suds is so safe and gentle that it is highly recommended for bathing BABIES. Used by leading hospitals.
Sutho Suds costs LESS than soap flakes and soap powders per washing. The concentrated contents of each package of Sutho Suds weighs 2 or 3 times as much as an equal size package of soap flakes... and you use much less Sutho Suds per washing.
No "Soapy-Film". Sutho Suds contains NO soap, makes NO soapy lather to cling to your dishes or clothes. Neither the "suds" from Sutho Suds nor the "suds" from soap powders and flakes have any real washing or cleaning value. The cleaner in the water does all the washing and cleaning. The clean, sparkling, sudsy bubbles from Sutho Suds gradually disappear during use, leaving "miracle" Sutho Water which washes and cleans much better than solutions of soap, soap flakes or soap powders with heavy, soapy, lathery, film-leaving suds.

NEWS

Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Indeed the common authoritative inside opinion here is that the Communist-Socialist coalition is merely now going through a phase of proving itself to be unpopular. It cannot get the food or clothing necessary to become popular, unless Mr. Blum gets the two and a half billion dollars or more from us, if then.

As soon as this course of developing unpopularity has been run an overturn of the government is expected in France, a change which will relegate the Communists to a less important position.

The Covent Garden market, London, sells vegetables, fruits and flowers. It was established in the first half of the 17th century by small gardeners of the suburbs. The market house covers about three acres.

Indeed the common authoritative inside opinion here is that the Communist-Socialist coalition is merely now going through a phase of proving itself to be unpopular. It cannot get the food or clothing necessary to become popular, unless Mr. Blum gets the two and a half billion dollars or more from us, if then.

As soon as this course of developing unpopularity has been run an overturn of the government is expected in France, a change which will relegate the Communists to a less important position.

SUSPENSE THRILLER

Agnes Moorehead, star of the new "Calamity Jane" radio series, heads the cast for Cornell Woolrich's spine-tangler, "Post Mortem," on "Suspense," Thursday, at 8 p. m. William Spier directs the mystery series.

AUTO RACE CLASSIC

One of the largest and most colorful spectacles on the American sporting scene, the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race at the Indianapolis Speedway, will be brought to Mutual network listeners, in a series of three broadcasts scheduled for May 30. Timed to coincide with the start, the stretch run, and the finish of the race, these three broadcasts will be heard (10:45 to 11:15 a. m., EST), (1 to 1:15 p. m., EST) and (3 p. m., EST) until conclusion. This year's race marks the first running of the Memorial Day classic since 1941, and plans are well under way to recapture and augment the color and the holiday spirit that annually brought such thrills to the American public. Many famous drivers have entered their streamlined speedsters, and the Speedway course, now covered with rock asphalt, will again serve as a testing ground for the nerve and skill of the world's leading racing drivers. Of no less importance than the element of personal competition is the test of mechanical and engineering genius provided by the gruelling 500-mile run that calls for only the finest of automotive engineering skill and craftsmanship. Many wartime developments in connection with motors and mechanical design will be given their baptism of fire in this year's race. The description of the meet over Mutual will be handled by Tom Slater, Norman Perry and other announcers yet to be named.

TREASURE HOUR

With Licia Albanese in Canada for a concert tour, another distinguished Metropolitan prima donna, Stella Roman, makes her first guest appearance with baritone Francesco Valentino and the orchestra conducted by Alfredo Antonini, on "Treasure Hour of Song," Thursday, (9:30 to 10 p. m., EST) over Mutual. Miss Roman's dramatic soprano voice will be heard in the familiar "Elegy" of Massenet, the difficult "Suicidio" from the opera, "La Gioconda," and with Valentino in the duet, "Now and Forever." The Met baritone will offer for his solos, Lehár's "Yours

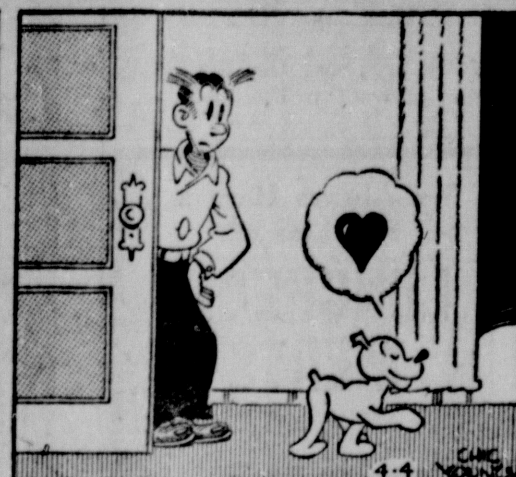

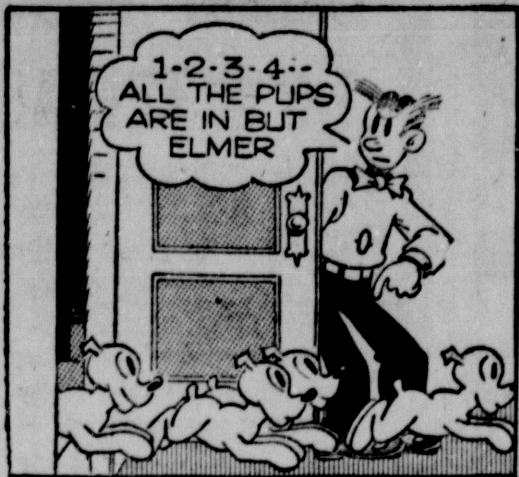

PRIZE PAPER

Richard Rogue, private investigator par excellence, becomes involved in a dog-eat-dog game of hide and seek with a small, but highly prized piece of paper in "The Message," latest episode of "Rogue's Gallery," over Mutual Thursday, (8:30 to 9 p. m., EST). Rogue, played by Dick Powell, spies a girl scampering up an alley, with a man in a speeding car emptying a revolver full of bullets at her, and decides to declare himself "in" on the party. The small piece of paper turns out to be the parlor prize.

FARM CLEANUP WEEK SLATED TO START MONDAY

Suggestions To Aid Livestock Health Are Offered By American Foundation

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 4—Plans for a nation-wide "farm cleanup week" from April 8 to 14, to help step up 1946 livestock production and farm profits, were announced here today by livestock health authorities. Chief objective of the effort in this state will be a thorough cleanup of livestock quarters, barnyards, and lots, to eradicate parasites, germs, and disease hazards which could be a threat to livestock health. Cleanup suggestions, offered today by the American Foundation for Animal Health, include: "Clean and disinfect livestock quarters, particularly where young animals and poultry are to be born and housed. "Remove old straw stacks, by spreading straw on fields. Old stacks harbor worms, parasites, and disease germs. "Clean up barnyards and livestock lots. They are often heavily infested with parasites. "Drain low spots in barn lots, where water stands; fence off those spots which cannot be drained. Wet places are germ-breeding. "Haul out all manure; manure piles are sources of parasite infestation. "Pick up nails, glass, and other sharp objects which could be

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

In the multitude of people is the King's honor; but in the want of the people is the destruction of the prince.—Proverbs 14:28.

Members of the Community Choral Club will assemble for rehearsal at 8:45 p. m. Thursday at Memorial Hall.

"Religious Flibustering" will be the subject of Rev. Robert E. Leake, of St. Alban's Church, Bexley, Friday night, when he speaks at St. Philip's.

James Allen, 332 West Huston street, and Francis Tilton, 832 North Court street, who underwent tonsillectomies Wednesday in Berger hospital, were removed to their homes Thursday.

Mrs. Alva Layton and infant daughter were removed from Berger hospital, Wednesday, to their home, Route 1, Orient.

Prudential Insurance Agency Office has moved from Seitz Building, West Main street, to the swallowed by livestock with fatal consequences.

"Move young animals to fresh, clean ground as early as possible. As added health precautions, be sure pigs are vaccinated against erysipelas and cholera, have breeding stock checked for brucellosis, and watch for signs of disease so prompt corrective measures may be taken."

Heffner Building, 112½ S. Court St.

Dr. Robert E. Hedges, optometrist, has enrolled for the Spring quarter at Ohio State University. He is continuing his practice at his office on North Court street, having arranged all his classes in the mornings.
